PRESIDENT COOLIDGE will observe that the Senate is in no doubt as to public opinion on the oil scandal. Some Senator would lose no sleep over such a little thing as selling the Navy's oil supply to private individuals, or paying a little cash (checks) to public officials, if the thing could be put over quietly.

BUT the country is awake, and not one Senator voted against Walsh's resolution calling on the President to cancel oil leases.

Mr. Coolidge is an absolutely honest man, everybody feels it. But he is also the Nation's Executive, and something more than slow, cautious movement, and the appointment of respectable, average, ordinary men as lawyers in the case is demanded.

AS THINGS stand now, the oil scandal might well make Walsh the next President, especially with genial Magnus Johnson saying: "Well, I think we have to have an independent, non-partisan Republican candidate for President, out our way now."

"Out our way now," the Northwest, and other regions West of Hoboken and Harvard do not see the thing through the eyes of quiet New England politics.

"Out our way," they know that if someone had bribed a postmaster to let him steal $200 worth of stamps, that somebody and the postmaster would have gone to jail inside of 30 days.

They want some action, and President Coolidge will do well to give it to them. Let him ask himself, "What would Roosevelt have done?" Roosevelt really was an able politician.

LENIN'S widow wants no statues or other monuments in honor of her dead husband. "If you care to honor his memory," she says, "build schools, orphanages, kindergartens, nurseries, hospitals, libraries."

That will sound surprisingly civilized to those who think that everything Russian has horns and a forked tail.

IOWA'S newspapers start a campaign, or advertising, bragging about that fine State. No wonder, for they have things to brag about. The corn fields of Iowa alone produce more wealth than all the gold mines of the United States. The State knows no illiteracy, or at least less than any other State in the Union. Its crops are worth a billion a year; the entire population, including all hired men, grandmothers and babies could ride at the same time in Iowa's automobiles.

It's really a marvelous State. California and Florida rejoice saying: "More power. Get in those cars, drive here and spend it."

NOTHING is more fascinating than higher mathematics. Consider Wrigley, who makes

Family Is Called to Ex-President's Bedside

WILSON NEAR DEATH

Washington, Feb. 1. (By I.N.S.)—Woodrow Wilson was near death this afternoon, but clinging tenaciously to the slender thread of life. Shortly before 1 p. m. while watchers around his bedside expected his death at almost any hour, the ex-President fell into a deep sleep, the first he has had in more than twenty-four hours, and it so cheered his physicians they declared it might possibly mark a turning point in his condition.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chief of the attending physicians, left the house at 1 p. m. to take a short walk. He was haggard and worn from 24 hours in the sick room without sleep.

"He has just dropped off to sleep," Dr. Grayson said, "it may be there is hope. If it is restful, it may mark a turning point."

The other physicians, Dr. H. A. Fowler and Dr. Sterling Ruffin, had left the house shortly before, and Dr. Grayson's departure left only the nurse and Mrs. Wilson with the former President. Grayson, however, planned to be absent only a short time.

The pulse and respiration of the former President, Dr. Grayson said, were nearly normal.

Dr. Fowler, as he left the house at 12:30, said there had been no stoppage of the kidneys, contrary to earlier reports.

Mrs. Wilson is remaining constantly at her husband's bedside. She and the doctors are the only ones admitted to the sick room.

Shortly after 12:30 o'clock it was reported that Mr. Wilson had lost consciousness and that he was in a semi-conscious condition, but this rumor was not confirmed by the physicians.

Members of the former executive's family were hastily notified by Mrs. Wilson of the alarming turn in his condition this morning. Miss Margaret Wilson left immediately from New York. A cable was sent to another daughter, Mrs. Francis B. Sayres, in Siam.

William G. McAdoo and Mrs. McAdoo, formerly Miss Eleanor Wilson, the third daughter, prepared today to leave Los Angeles immediately for Washington.

RALLIED SLIGHTLY.

At noon Mr. Wilson had rallied a little, but there was no material change in his condition. He was fully conscious and, in a faint voice, talked with those at his bedside.

Dr. Ruffin pronounced Mr. Wilson's condition unchanged—that he was very weak, but still conscious.

No sedatives or opiates have been administered, Dr. Ruffin said, and there is no intention of resorting to an operation.

Already weakened by more than four years of suffering, he had sus-

"I'm a Broken Man; I'm Ready to Go," Said Wilson

Washington, Feb. 1.—Only a short time before Dr. Grayson announced ex-President Wilson's condition was alarming, the former chief executive summoned him to lean over his bedside and in a whisper said:

"Doctor, I'm a broken man. I'm a broken piece of machinery. I am ready to go."

With that Dr. Grayson said the ex-President thanked him in a feeble voice for all he had done for him.

SINCLAIR MAY RETURN TO U. S. IN A MONTH

London, Feb. 1. — Mason Day, European representative of Harry F. Sinclair, today said Sinclair would remain in Europe two or three weeks longer. The oil magnate who arrived here from Paris yesterday, expects to return to the French capital tomorrow, Mr. Day said, and then will go to Belgium on a business trip, perhaps visiting Germany before sailing for the United States. Mr. Day characterized as "bunk" a report that Mr. Sinclair would remain abroad for two months.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Without debate the House today passed the Walsh resolution, already approved by the Senate, directing the President to bring about cancellation of the Doheny and Sinclair naval oil reserve leases. The vote was 120 to 4.

British Schooner Sunk by a Peruvian Steamship Off Partridge Island

St. John, N. B., Feb. 1.—Eight members of the crew of the British schooner Maid of Scotland are missing following the sinking of the craft in a collision today with the Peruvian steamer Perene near Partridge Island.

The chief officer and three men of the Perene were lost, it was reported, while trying to pick up in a small boat the crew of the Maid of Scotland.

Both vessels were bound from New York to St. John. The Perene left January 24 and the Maid of Scotland a day later.

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 1 (I.N.S.).—The United States Shipping Board steamer Schoharie, bound for Boston, put in here today damaged by gales in mid-Atlantic and short of fuel oil.

The oil tanker Virtuvia, London for New York, is also tied up for repairs that will require at least a week. Her rudder, decks and bottom were damaged. She, too, was short of oil.

RAID WIDOW IN BOGUS LOTTERY

West Acton Woman Is Said to Have Cleaned Up Half-Million in Scheme

The arraignment today in Central Middlesex Court at Concord of Mrs. Edith M. Flynn of West Acton, charged with being the sole proprietor of a bogus "Canadian Loterie Company," out of which she is said to have made $500,000, brought to light the story of a sensational Watch and Ward raid on the Flynn estate in which several shots were fired and a German police dog was shot dead.

The gravest charge made against Mrs. Flynn, forty-five years old and a widow of a few months, is that while most if not all the tickets of her "lottery" were sold in the shoe and cotton mill cities of New England the prizes invariably went to fictitious residents of places in the South and the Far West.

Wilson Bulletins

Washington, Feb. 1.—"You have done the best you could," said Mr. Wilson to Dr. Grayson just before he fell asleep at 1 o'clock today. "But I'm a broken machine." Then he added with a rally of his waning strength: "But I'm ready."

The former President's condition just before noon was such that it was said the end might come any time. He was weak, and growing weaker, although physicians said he was "fighting bravely." Those who saw him during his long illness at the White House, when he was almost continuously at the point of death, said he was "in worse shape now" than then.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Later in the morning Admiral Grayson announced that he had summoned Dr. H. A. Fowler and Dr. Ruffin, both of whom attended ex-President Wilson during the White House illness, for a consultation.

WILSON DYING; DOCTORS ABANDON ALL HOPE FOR RECOVERY

EX-PRESIDENT MAY NOT LIVE THROUGH DAY; FAMILY CALLED TO HIS BEDSIDE

tained during the past few days a digestive disorder, at first regarded as more or less harmless, but now threatening to prove too much for him to master.

Yesterday his condition showed some improvement and when he retired for the night it was hoped he might be on the road to recovery. He slept little, however, and his physician, Rear-Admiral Cary T. Grayson, found, toward morning, alarming indications of a relapse.

Dr. Grayson had spent the night at the Wilson home and with Mrs. Wilson, was in constant attendance at the bedside. He had returned to the capital yesterday from a trip into North Carolina, after word had reached him that the former President had developed symptoms of a new character.

NOT UNEXPECTED.

The present complication, although a surprise to those who have been accustomed to see Mr. Wilson taking his daily automobile ride through the city, or his weekly trip to the theatre, was not wholly unexpected to his physicians.

Outwardly the former President had appeared to be in large part his old self, except for a deepening of the lines of his face and the lingering affliction to his left leg, which prevented him from walking except with evident difficulty.

He has gained in weight and at a distance has the appearance of having taken on a new robustness during his long months of semi-seclusion.

During the past few weeks, too, he has taken an increasing part in public affairs again. He has been very active in his exchange of letters with old friends and admirers over the country, and many of his letters have been on topics of current political interest and have been published.

SEEMED TO GAIN.

On armistice eve he delivered his first address by radio from his S street home, and it was such a militant utterance on foreign affairs that the whole country realized his illness had not modified the intentness of his old fighting spirit, what ever might have done to his physical alertness.

He also received a group of admirers on Armistice Day, and two weeks ago shook hands with members of the Democratic National Committee as they filed through his study.

But those who knew the inside story of the years of solitude, which he has passed, were aware of the delicate balance upon which his physical strength has rested, and knew how it had tilted now this way and now that, throughout the gallant fight of Dr. Grayson—not only his physician, but one of his closest personal friends—to avert a crisis.

WATCHED CLOSELY.

It was for this reason that every disorder, even of the most inconsequential character on its face, has been watched closely by his physicians.

The first symptoms of the latest attack developed early this week when Mr. Wilson became a prey to

Dress Modified by King to Save Cost to Labor

London, Feb. 1 (I.N.S.).—King George and Queen Mary today modified court dress regulations so that the members of the Labor government and their wives would not be put to the extra expense of buying costly new clothing. Ordinary evening dress is all that will be required at court functions while the Labor government is in power.

A digestive derangement, at first of a minor character, but developing quickly into a condition that at once aroused concern.

Those who live in the vicinity of his home first guessed something was amiss when the big automobile presented as a birthday gift a month ago by anonymous friends, failed to draw up before the white portals of the trim brick house on S street to take the former chief executive for his customary ride in the late afternoon.

On Wednesday, Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who helped attend Mr. Wilson in his illness at the White House, was summoned by Mrs. Wilson in the absence of Dr. Grayson.

NOT ALARMING AT FIRST.

He made a careful examination and on Wednesday night gave the public its first real news of the trouble in a statement saying that a complication had developed but for the moment was not of proportions to warrant alarm.

He added that the development was unrelated to the old trouble that has assailed the former President during his Western speaking trip late in 1918.

Dr. Grayson, on his return to Washington yesterday confirmed that diagnosis and said he did not at that time regard the attack as serious unless it should fail to yield to treatment.

The change during the night, however, manifestly aroused grave fears in the minds of Dr. Grayson and Mrs. Wilson, who has been the faithful attendant of her husband since the first symptoms of his collapse became manifest during the Western trip four and a half years ago.

NOTIFIES FAMILY.

Today she notified all the members of Mr. Wilson's family of his condition at the suggestion of Dr. Grayson. None of his three daughters is in Washington.

News of the change for the worse spread rapidly throughout Washington, as alarming rumors were disseminated over the whole country during the night by radio broadcasting stations.

Early this morning, before Dr. Grayson had issued his bulletin, messages of sympathy and encouragement began arriving by the thousands.

President Coolidge was one of the first to convey his expressions of regret. As soon as he reached his office the President learned of the serious condition of the former President and immediately sent to Mrs. Wilson a message for himself and Mrs. Coolidge expressing concern and hope of a speedy recovery.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Vance McCormick, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, indicated that little hope remained to Mr. Wilson's friends as he left the ex-President's home after a brief stay today. "He may die today," Mr. McCormick said, "or he may linger over until tomorrow. Of course, where there is life at all there is always some hope."

'HAUNTED' MAN REVEALED SON AS SLAYER

Aged Father Bares Murder of Girl When Pursued by Her "Spirit" at Night

Bridgeton, N. J., Feb. 1 (I.N.S.).—"I had the haunts—every night Emma would would come back to me and her spirit would bid me tell—that's why I told on Thompy."

Benjamin Dickson, folk here call him "Old Uncle Benny," today explained his story in which he accused his own son, Thompson Dickson, of the murder of his granddaughter, Emma Dickson.

Emma was fifteen. "Thompy," as "Old Uncle Benny" calls his son, is fifty. "Benny" is eighty.

"Yes, I knew I was going to die soon, but that isn't what made me tell. It was Emma's spirit—I had the haunts," the aged man explained.

The accused son does not know his father has told. Thompson Dickson, scornful and calm, today sat in his cell here, predicting he would "beat this charge against him." He knows he has been accused of his daughter's murder, but he doesn't know who his accuser is.

Thompson Dickson may never hear his father make the direct charge against him. The aged "Uncle Benny" was pronounced "very sick" by physicians today. Neighbors have taken him in, and every medical attention is being given him. Fear was expressed, however, that the mental strain under which he has been laboring, will prove too great for the old man. As a result a signed, sworn statement will be secured to obtain a conviction.

3 BANDITS RAID U. S. LINER AT DOCK

Armed Trio Force Skipper of West Kebar to Open Safe; Steal Mystery Package

Half the available detective force of Boston is today hunting for three bandits who broke through lines of watchmen and sailors, climbed unobserved on board the United States Shipping Board vessel West Kebar at her dock in East Boston, and pointing guns at the head of Captain George F. Waite compelled the skipper to open the ship's safe.

The robbers, according to Captain Waite, appeared to be well satisfied to get away with nothing more than a mysterious long envelope, the exact nature of the contents of which is not revealed.

Neither Captain Waite, the police nor Boston officials of the Shipping Board can explain how the gunmen managed to get on the wharf and to the West Kebar, which arrived two or three days ago from Hamburg and is tied up at Federal Wharf, the entrance to which is at No. 146 Border street, East Boston.

KNOCKED AT DOOR.

"The first thing I knew," Captain Waite says, "there was a knock at the cabin door and the first of the fellows had stuck his head in.

"His companions followed, all carrying guns but no one speaking a word until the door was closed. Then the spokesman ordered me to open the safe, and knowing it to be empty I was quick to comply.

"When there proved to be nothing in the safe for them they searched my pockets, with similar results.

"It being the first of the month, I figured they probably came for our payroll money, but the men had been paid off six hours earlier and most of them had gone ashore. Still, we had watchmen about, and I mean to find out how such fellows could come aboard this ship without the watchmen knowing.

chewing gum. Silent on a peak on Catalina Island he looked westward over the Pacific, toward China, and mused thus:

"Five hundred million Chinamen over there. The average Chinese has 13 sound teeth—that makes 900,000,000 good teeth going to waste—chewing no gum, contributing nothing to a great industry!"

HE HURRIED back from Catalina, sent gum missionaries to China. At first the Chinese—courteous, chewed and swallowed the gum. Wrigley cabled over just one word, "persevere."

Now he has a big gum business in China, and talks of starting a factory there. Imagination, mathematics and perseverance work wonders.

HAVE YOU a little savings bank account for each child? It works wonders. In 1759, our Benjamin Franklin, then in London, put 100 pounds into a fund, the interest to accumulate for 150 years—and then be used for useful awards.

Yesterday, British trustees of the Benjamin Franklin Fund, distributed 4,000 pounds in three awards, for scientific work. Thus the interest on $500 carefully invested and accumulated makes it possible to have an income of $20,000 a year. Great is the power of compound interest. Start your little account.

LABOR MEMBERS of the new British Cabinet refuse to buy court dress, silk knee breeches, buckles, sword, etc., for court functions. One Labor minister says that while ordinary evening dress is permissible, he has no such outfit, and will go in his ordinary clothes.

That will surprise and shock some plain American Democrats that have been sent to the court of St. James.

FOLLOWING the Teapot Dome scandal, peddlers are already selling little teapots to be worn as Democratic badges. Politics is a childish business.

2 ACCUSED BY WIDOW WAIT VERDICT

Newburyport Men Accused of Attack at Cider-Drinking Party

Salem, Feb. 1.—A jury retired today to decide whether or not Mrs. Anne Frances Donahue, a widow, had been attacked by two prominent Newburyport men last Summer. They are Mathew A. Twomey, Newburyport City Councillor, and Raymond Hatch.

The widow charges she was brutally assaulted in a Salisbury cemetery after leaving a taxicab with the men to drink hard cider midst the gravestones.

On the witness stand she told the jury how she had fought the two men for fully forty minutes before they overpowered her.

"God only knows how I fought," she said.

The taxicab was halted by the men at the cemetery entrance, Clark Hunt, the driver, son of the treasurer of a Newburyport bank, testified. He said he was told to return in an hour, which he did. Then he testified the widow and Twomey and Hatch stepped into the cab and appeared friendly.

The trial was before Judge Walsh and occupied all of Thursday.

PROTESTANTS TO AID GERMAN CHILDREN

Washington, Feb. 1.—An appeal to "all Protestants in America" to help in the relief of the children of Germany was issued today in the form of a call to 125,000 pastors by the committee on mercy and relief of the Federal Council of Churches.

Prayers at all public religious services are asked, and offerings for the relief of the suffering in Germany in every church and Sunday School are requested. The pastors also are urged to encourage individual laymen to make personal contributions to the relief fund, which, unless the gifts are otherwise designated, will be expended through Protestant agencies in Germany.

DOCTORS FACE TRIAL FOR FRAUD; GRAND JURY TO ACT ON CASES

BAY STATE MEN ARE INVOLVED

Connecticut to Prosecute Many of 129 Who Had Licenses Revoked

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 1.—Connecticut is today for the first time in years free of licensed medical quacks and fakers.

It is the intention of the extraordinary grand jury and the prosecuting officials expressed to the Boston American to keep it so.

They also propose to press criminal prosecutions between now and the time the next Legislature meets to enact a new, modern and airtight medical practice act, which will undoubtedly provide for one rather than six different medical examining boards.

Of the 129 "doctors" whose licenses were revoked Thursday, twenty-nine claimed to be graduates of the Middlesex College of Physicians and Surgeons of Cambridge and three from the Boston College of Physicians and Surgeons. The others were from the Missouri "diploma mills," exposed by Harry T. Brundidge of the St. Louis Star; 71 from the Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery and 26 from the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons.

One eclectic quack is under indictment for manslaughter and forty-five others have already had their licenses revoked. Some of them are certain to face prosecution for perjury and bribery if not the more serious charges of manslaughter and conspiracy.

QUACK IS EXAMINER.

Many of the eclectics disbarred are not now residents of Connecticut, but used their Connecticut licenses which were obtained "by fraud and deceit," according to the board, which issued and now revokes permits, to secure license in other States under reciprocal agreement. For instance, "Doctor" Jacob S. Schirmer of Urbanette, Ark., who was registered and given an Arkansas license on the basis of his Connecticut fraudery, is now a member of the State Examining Board in Arkansas and candidates for licenses for physicians and surgeons are passed by him.

REFLOAT CORONADO ASHORE AT JAMAICA

Kingston, Jamaica, Feb. 1.—The Elders and Fyffes steamer Coronado, which went ashore on a reef near Morant Point on the east end of Jamaica, Monday evening, has been refloated and brought to this port by the salvage steamer Willett. The forty passengers of the Coronado were transferred to the steamship Patuca, of the same line, and the cargo of bananas jettisoned.

BEAUTY IS ASSAILED BY CANDLER

Defence Counsel Charge Mrs. De Bouchel Married When Courted by Millionaire

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 1 (I.N.S.).—After the reading of two scores of love letters, defence attorneys in the De Bouchel-Candler heart balm suit today launched their offensive to prove that Mrs. Onezima De Bouchel, noted Southern beauty, was legally married at the time she accepted the hand of Asa G. Candler, multi-millionaire and Coca Cola king.

She is suing the capitalist for $500,000, charging breach of promise. Candler's attorneys declared they intended to prove that she was the wife of Adolph Rosenast of New Orleans, and therefore the engagement with Candler was not binding. It will be shown, they said, that fraud was employed in the securing of her divorce in Nevada and that it was illegal.

DROWNED IN 4-HOUR FIGHT ON ICE-FLOE

New York, Feb. 1.—Albert Gadsby, a mechanic, was drowned today in the Hudson River after a four-hour battle for life on shifting ice floes. His two companions, Arnold Peterson, his brother-in-law, and Stephen Murray, were rescued. They were in an eighteen-foot launch. A giant floe crushed the boat and they jumped to an ice cake. Peterson finally made shore and found a policeman. Murray was alone when they reached the cake. He had not heard Gadsky slip from the crumbling cake.

'HATED BABY' STARVED TO DEATH

Mother Accused in New Jersey Mystery; Admits She Dropped Body in Well

Silm, N. J., Feb. 1 (I.N.S.).—Miam Atkinson, sixyear-old dauder of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ainson of Woodstown, was starved to death, after which her bdy—almost a skeleton—was dopped into an unused well.

The the announcement made by Dr. J.C. Sutherland, county physician llowing an autopsy today. Thecents are in jail.

Dr Sutherland said he would examine child's stomach for traces of pon. An inquest will be held tomow.

Thather was silent under questioning. "I wasn't home when Miria died," he said. "My wife maase help her put the body in the el. Ask her, she knows."

Tlwas Atkinson's only reply to uestions by County Prosecutor Beeny.

THOHT HER "CHANGELING."

Ms Atkinson, according to Beckley, ad under the impression that the gl was a changeling—that upon her ith in a hospital she had been "swedled" for another child.

Thather never took stock in the theory of his wife, Beckley says. Atkinson, according to the prosecutor, drays expressed deep love for the old. The mother did not.

In he cell Mrs. Atkinson told several sufficting stories of the girl's death. She was quoted by Beckley as saying:

"Miriam was always sick. On January 23 she was sitting at the supper table—suddenly she just fell over dead. I didn't have any money for a funeral so I just wrapped the body in a burlap bag and put it into the well."

MOTHER CONFESSES.

Yesterday, after a sister of Mrs. Atkinson grew suspicious, and notified authorities, Mrs. Atkinson led them in a wild hunt through a nearby woods, insisting she had buried the body there. The search continued until Mrs. Atkinson confessed the body was in the well. A lowered lantern revealed the bag and the body was taken from the water.

Many complaints have been registered with local authorities over Mrs. Atkinson's treatment of the girl. The Atkinsons had two other children—and Mrs. Atkinson is again become a mother within a month. The two younger children neighbors said, were well treated, clothed and fed. They were permitted the companionship of other children of the neighborhood. Miriam, it was charged, was always kept in rags and was held indoors.

Relatives of Mrs. Atkinson are said to have tried constantly to convince her that Miriam was her daughter and not a changeling baby.

THREE GIRLS ARE JAILED AFTER RAID

Young Women Caught During Wild Back Bay Party Refuse to Give Names

Three girls taken by the Back Bay police while participating in a wild party in an apartment at No. 97 St. Stephen street, Back Bay, refused to give their proper names to Judge Hayden in Roxbury court today and were sentenced to a month each in the Charles street jail.

The girls gave their names as Helen Joyce of No. 21 Rush street, Somerville; Anna Murray of No. 49 Vernon avenue, Somerville, and Rita La Court, who admitted that it was her apartment in which the party was staged. One man, Edward Wilson of No. 243 Main street, Charlestown, was also arrested.

When the police arrived at the apartment, the Joyce girl was on the floor, her clothing torn, and Wilson was standing over her.

In addition to a charge of being drunk, Wilson was also booked on the charge of assault.

Probation Officer C. S. Lappen told the court the girls refused to give their proper names. The judge insisted that the names be given and when the girls remained obdurate he imposed the jail sentence.

Wilson was fined $25 on the two charges while the La Court girl was fined $15 on the charge of being drunk. All the defendants appealed and were released on $200 bail each.

MRS. DOHENY HELD KEY TO $100,000 LOAN; KEPT IN SECRET PLACE

NOTE TORN IN HALVES TO PROTECT FALL

W. Gregory, the Democrat chosen by President Coolidge to prosecute the government's oil lease cases, have been employed by oil interests, E. L. Doheny, California operator, testified today before the Senate oil committee.

Doheny said his company had employed McAdoo to represent it in Washington on Mexican affairs shortly after he left the Cabinet.

McAdoo received $250,000 "all told, from our company," Doheny said, adding that "he still represents us in Mexico."

"Our company and half a dozen others employed Mr. Gregory to represent them before the President in regard to getting permits to drill oil wells in Mexico," said Mr. Doheny. "Our share was $2,000."

HAS GENERAL RETAINER

The witness said Mr. McAdoo had represented his company in Washington until the end of the Wilson administration. He now has "general retainer" to represent his company "in any and all matters," he added.

Mr. Doheny said Lindley M. Garrison, former Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet, had been employed by Blair & Co., a New York banking firm, of which Doheny is a director.

Referring to the employment of former Secretary Franklin K. Lane of the interior, in the Wilson Cabinet, Doheny said his salary was $50,000 a year.

GREGORY HAD "ENTREE"

Mr. Doheny declared he never had had any financial transactions with public officials other than that which he had testified concerning the loan to Mr. Fall.

With reference to the employment of Mr. Gregory, the witness said he was selected because it was assumed he had entree to the White House. Woodrow Wilson then was President, he said.

At that time, he added, Mr. Gregory was counsel for the Island Oil Company and that company suggested his employment for the special purpose of intervening with President Wilson on the Mexican matter.

Mr. Doheny said he had "only learned yesterday" of the employment of Mr. Gregory upon examination of the books.

RENEW ATTACK ON DENBY.

Simultaneously with the report of specially appointed physicians that there is no reason why Albert B. Fall should not appear before the Senate oil committee to tell more about the leasing of naval oil reserves, the assault was renewed in the Senate today on Secretary Denby, whose resignation has been demanded by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

The Senate committee decided to call Mr. Fall before it at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile it got from Mr. Doheny part of a note for $100,000, from which the signature had been torn, as evidence of the loan to Mr. Fall. It was dated at Washington, November 30, 1921, and was made payable on demand. Mr. Doheny said he believed it to be in the handwriting of the former Interior Secretary.

TORE NOTE IN HALVES.

Explaining the absence of signature, Mr. Doheny said he and Mrs. Doheny had come across the note some time ago and had agreed to tear it in half, each to retain a part, so that collection would not be forced by the executor in case of the death of himself and Mrs. Doheny. He said that the loan was an accommodation and it was not desired that its collection be forced.

The witness said Mrs. Doheny had retained the signature and he had retained the other part. He and Mrs. Doheny had carried the two pieces of the note around with them.

"If we were killed in a railroad wreck," he said, "the note would be on our bodies. Our son would have known what it was, but the executors would not. Our idea was that Mr. Fall should not be pressed for payment until he was able to pay."

LEGACY TO FALL.

Mr. Doheny said that in the event of the death of himself and Mrs. Doheny, the loan was to be a "legacy to Mr. Fall."

There were sharp exchanges between Mr. Doheny and Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, as the senator sought to have the witness concede that he had not told "the whole truth" about the note when he testified before.

"Are you trying to get me to admit that I told a lie?" asked Mr. Doheny.

"The evidence here speaks for itself."

"I knew that you would be disappointed when I produced the note without the signature," said Mr. Doheny amid laughter from the spectators.

"To show you how disappointed I am, I shall read some of your previous testimony," said Senator Pittman.

The senator then pressed his question as to whether the witness had "told the truth."

"My dear, sir," replied Mr. Doheny, "I am not here to answer questions as to whether I told the truth or not. You cannot get me by your cross-question to admit that I perjured myself."

Questioned by Senator Bursum of New Mexico, Mr. Doheny said Mr. McAdoo's salary is $50,000 a year.

Asked which had been the more valuable, the services of Mr. Fall or those of Mr. McAdoo, the witness said "the services rendered by Mr. Fall, Mr. Brandegee and Mr. Smith, for Americans abroad everywhere, were of greater value than that of any other men in those days."

Doheny said he referred to Senator Brandegee of Connecticut and former Senator Mark Smith of Arizona. They were members of a foreign relations sub-committee on Mexican affairs in the days when Mr. Fall was a Senator.

LOTTERY RAID

Deputy Wellman T. Taylor of the Watch and Ward Society, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff A. Paul Fillebrown of Ayer and four Watch and Ward detectives, descended upon the $65,000 Flynn place on Arlington street, West Acton.

RAIDERS ARMED

Warned of the iron gateway, the wire entanglements and the two ferocious dogs, the members of the raiding party were fully armed.

The growling of the dogs gave warning to the inmates of the house that there was trouble at hand and Mrs. Flynn came out upon the walk to ask what was wanted.

"We are here with a warrant," Deputy Sheriff Fillebrown replied, "and I warn you to call off these dogs for their own good."

The woman, the raiders say, hurried back into the house for the purpose of destroying possible evidence against her. In spite of this precaution the officers seized 15 pounds of type, 5,000 official reports of a recent "drawing," 10,000 manifold sheets, 100,000 tickets, various account books and the names and addresses of 50 New England agents.

DOG IS KILLED

When the officers forced their way through wire and gate the two dogs sprang upon them viciously and the leader of the police party lifted a shotgun to his shoulder and blazed away. "Freckles," the larger and uglier of the dogs, continued to show fight after he had twice been peppered with shot and he did not quit until he was killed.

The raiders chased the second dog into a barn and then rushed for the house, and when no attention was paid to Fillebrown's command to "open in the name of the Commonwealth!" they smashed their way through the big front door with an axe.

The only occupants of the place are said to have been Mrs. Flynn, her daughters, twenty-five and eighteen years old, respectively, the four children of the former and one manservant.

Mrs. Flynn was arrested and taken to Concord Jail, whence she sent word of her plight to her attorney and arranged for $1,500 bail.

THREE CHARGES MADE

The charges against the woman, according to the Watch and Ward men, are three:

1.—Setting up and promoting a lottery.

2.—Knowingly permitting a lottery drawing to take place on her premises.

3.—Setting up and maintaining a fictitious lottery.

Mrs. Flynn was held in $1,000 on the "fictitious lottery" charge, and $500 on each of the other two charges. The hearing was continued by Judge Loomis until February 20. Before that date the case will be brought to the attention of the Post-office Department and Department of Justice of the Federal government.

Although the tickets and other printed matter describe the extremely profitable Flynn enterprise as the "Canadian Loteria Company" there appears on none of the literature any Canadian address.

Not only is there a complete absence of Canadian connection the officer and the Watch and Ward agents say, but patrons of the "loteria" are warned in red ink on the company's letter-heads: "Do not communicate by mail. Communicate through agents."

In the opinion of the Watch and Ward men, the sales agents of the "loteria" company are not aware that the lottery has been a "heads-I-win-tails-you-lose" proposition. The detectives base this belief on the report that all that the agents have been allowed in the way of commission is 20 per cent, or one-fifth of the "take." This is said to be about the percentage allowed by pools and lotteries which really hold a drawing now and then.

TICKETS FOR 25 CENTS

The Canadian Loteria Company is said to have been devised by the late Will Flynn of Malden. Out of it the Flynns are said to have become immensely wealthy, but when Flynn died, not many months ago, his widow is said to have found it impossible to close the door on such "easy money."

The drawings, according to the literature, "take place at Montreal, Canada, on the last Thursday of each month."

You could buy a ticket for an amount as small as twenty-five cents, but this ticket was only a one-eighth. The price of a whole ticket was $2; of a half ticket, $1; of a quarter ticket, 50 cents.

In view of the Watch and Ward report that tickets in the "loteria" were sold almost exclusively in New England—the richest field of all is said to have been Lynn, with Salem a good second—the Flynn report of where the prizes "went" in one recent month is extremely interesting.

Mrs. de Menocal Delights Friends By Late Suppers, Betty Alden Says

By BETTY ALDEN

AFTER-THE-THEATRE SUPPERS are one of Mrs. Daniel A. de Menocal's most delightful habits.

As jolly as they are informal are these affairs. Mrs. De Menocal, quite on the spur of the moment, gathers together a crowd of friends after this or that entertainment and bears them off to her Beacon street home.

After Mary Garden had trilled the last golden notes of "Louise" at the Opera House the other evening, some of Mrs. De Menocal's intimates enjoyed one of these late-hour treats.

When John Barrymore came to town, this charming hostess gave a similar affair on the evening of the closing performance, with "Hamlet" himself the honor guest.

Mrs. De Menocal, who was formerly Miss Beatrice Crosby, has a very lovely voice and frequently sings at smart charity functions. She is an attractive brunette, with a great deal of charm and vivacity of manner.

MRS. DANIEL A. DE MENOCAL

Mrs. Daniel A. de Menocal (Beatrice Crosby) of Beacon street, who is one of society's most charming hostesses.

ANOTHER popular after-the-theatre hostess is Mrs. Harris Livermore (Mildred Stimson). The Livermores' home, at No. 21 Beaver place, like the De Menocal domicile, is the scene of many delightful impromptu affairs. Located at the foot of Beacon Hill, it is just a minute's ride from the theatres.

Mrs. Harris Livermore

AMONG the festivities planned for St. Valentine's Night is the dance for two of the season's most important buds, Miss Harriet Boyden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyden of Commonwealth avenue, and Miss Margaret Blake, daughter of the George Bay Blakes, who have a large Berkshire estate in Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Homans of Marlboro street and Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Adams of Commonwealth avenue are giving the dance, which will be held at the Chilton Club.

THE most royal of welcomes was accorded talented Berthe and Francesca Braggiotti and some of their pupils when they entertained the two hundred odd students at Middlesex School, out Concord way. The latter, conducted by Mr. Winsor, is one of the most exclusive "prep" schools 'eabouts.

Francesca Braggiotti

Both Berthe and Gloria Braggiotti danced—Berthe interpreting a fascinating Oriental study for the occasion. And as Francesca must still use crutches—she hopes to discard them very shortly—she couldn't, of course, dance. So instead she sang some very delightful songs, which received the heartiest applause.

Society Notes

MRS. MONTGOMERY ROLLINS of Chestnut Hill and her daughter, Miss Sarah Rollins, are spending a few days in New York at the Hotel Lorraine.

MR. AND MRS. AUGUSTUS P. LORING of Marlboro street paid another of their frequent mid-Winter visits to "Off Lots," as their Pride's Crossing place is called.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER B. DENEGRE of Manchester-by-the-Sea were honor guests at a dinner given by Senator and Mrs. Oscar Underwood at the capital the other evening.

MRS. HORATIO NELSON SLATER is giving a dinner for Prince and Princess Hohenlohe at her Fifth avenue home on February 14.

MR. AND MRS. JONATHAN S. RAYMOND of Marlboro street are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter.

MISS AILSA MELLON and Secretary Mellon were hosts at a dinner the other night, with the Italian Ambassador, Prince Caetani, as ranking guest.

HUGE LOTTERY TO AID FRENCH TAX PLAN

Paris, Feb. 1.—Among the amendments to Premier Poincare's tax bills now before the Chamber of Deputies is a plan for a national lottery with an issue of tickets amounting to 1,000,000,000 francs in prizes amounting to 1,000,000,000. It is proposed in this way to raise a part of the money the Premier expects to get out of the 20 per cent. increase in taxes.

BRITISH HOWL AT PROPOSED NAVAL CUT

Snowden's Plan to Slash Budget of $25,000,000 Provokes Strong Protest

London, Feb. —A "hands off the navy" campaign is running in the newspapers in consequence of reports that Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, contemplates a reduction of $25,000,000 in the budget estimate of $250,000,000 submitted for his department by Lieutenant-Colonel Amery, First Lord of the Admiralty under Stanley Baldwin.

It has already been noted that Snowden's budget, to a great extent, must be identical to that prepared by the recent government, but it is unquestionably true that efforts are being made to reduce some of the items therein.

An outcry against tampering with the efficiency of the navy is easily raised here and the conservative newspapers are not missing an opportunity to make John Bull's pair stand on end by picturing the new ministers as economizing at the expense of his traditional bulwark.

As far as can be ascertained, however, the cut in the naval estimate, if any is contemplated, is not likely to be very drastic. The Daily Herald, the Laborite newspaper, says the reduction will not be more than about $12,500,000.

The army also is said to be threatened with curtailment of its expense account. Furthermore, according to the Daily Mail, the government has decided upon an additional economy in the dismissal of 1,000 temporarily employed civil servants.

Whatever can be saved by these various cuts is destined, if the reports are accurate to be applied toward a reduction or abolition of the duties on sugar and tea, one of the Labor party's most cherished purposes.

3 SMALL FIRES AS 2-PLATOON RULE STARTS

South Boston, South End and Washington Street Blazes Cause $3,000 Damage

The first day of the two-platoon system in the Boston Fire Department was ushered in with three small fires early today. Total damage was estimated at $3,000.

One blaze was discovered on the third floor of the four-story brick building at No. 923-927 Washington street. The blaze was confined to the third floor, but smoke and water caused some damage on the two lower floors. The building is occupied by the Park Furniture Company, the George C. Miller Company and the Fidelity Chocolate Company.

A small blaze started in the restaurant of Harry Mizraki, No. 217 Harvard avenue, South Boston, shortly after 6 o'clock. Damage estimated at $500.

At No. 73 Dartmouth street, South End, a small blaze, started, the police say, by a cigarette, resulted in damage of $500. The little store is on the first floor of a four-story dwelling.

No one left the building as a result of the fire.

"BRAKIE" DYING IN WORCESTER TRAIN CRASH

Two Freight Cars Burn After Wreck Caused by Switching Onto Wrong Track

Worcester, Feb. 1.—A freight train standing into North Worcester today from New Hampshire was switched onto a wrong track in the Greenville yards, and crashed into a parked freight train, almost killing a brakeman and setting the train afire.

Alphonse Dumont of West Oxford resting in the caboose of the stalled freight was so badly mangled he is dying in Worcester City Hospital. The caboose was splintered, also a box car adjoining. Both caught fire.

The entire train of thirty cars was in danger of burning until trainmen switched twenty-eight cars out of the fire zone.

Firemen called to fight the blaze were unable to get hose across the tangle of tracks to the flaming cars. They speedily burned to the ground.

Dumont was taken on a switch engine to Barber's Crossing, where he was transferred to an ambulance. He is forty-three years old.

Delevare King, who paid $100 for the coining of the term, "scoffaw," will announce on Lincoln's birthday the winners in his latest prize offer. Following the selection of "scoffaw," as the word applied to lawless drinkers, Mr. King offered prizes of $100, $50, $25, $15 and $10 for the best statements of not more than 100 words telling why the lawless drinker is a "scoffaw." Last night the contest closed. Approximately 2,000 letters have been received from 45 states.

DRY AGENTS SEIZE $20,000 IN "JAKEY"

Worcester, Feb. 1.—The seizure of 48,000 bottles of Jamaica ginger here by Federal Prohibition Agent John Northridge has brought to light a new wrinkle in the bootleg business. The "Jakey" seized here is what is called "single strength" Jamaica ginger.

The word "strength" does not apply to the alcoholic content but to the amount of ginger. Regular Jamaica ginger is unfit for beverage purposes. But when the percentage of ginger is reduced by half, the dry agents say, it ceases to be within the law. Samples of the seized "Jakey" tested 32 per cent. alcohol. The shipment is valued at $20,000.

BUSES IN USE AS AKRON, O., CARS STOP

Service Ends When Company Declines to Continue the Five-Cent Fare

Akron, O., Feb. 1.—Akron was without street car service today, but its citizens were not compelled to walk, as Mayor D. C. Ryholt arranged to motorize the city with several hundred busses and automobiles.

Service ended in compliance with a city ordinance requiring the Northern Ohio Traction & Light Company to cease operation when its twenty-five-year franchise expired, unless it continued to operate for a five-cent fare and free transfers. Approximately 1,000 carmen are idle.

Officials of the company stated that no attempt would be made to operate city cars. Suburban and interurban lines, however, continued in operation. No immediate steps will be taken to stop this service, it was announced by city officials.

More than 500 busses and automobiles were available to care for the 125,000 persons who daily rode on the street cars. Of these, 200 were Ford sedans, said by Service Director Lloyd Carter to have been purchased by Harvey S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company. Mr. Firestone declared they were donated by Henry Ford. Free service was furnished in these cars, but a five-cent rate prevailed in the others.

Under the ordinance, the company must remove its tracks, trolley wires, poles and other equipment from the streets within six months.

The company first demanded a seven-cent fare or four tickets for 28 cents. Later it agreed to accept a six-cent fare, pending an agreement on a new franchise. This was rejected by the city.

DOCTORS PUZZLED BY VENIZELOS' MALADY

Athens, eb 1 (I.N.S.).—Premier Eleutherios Venizelos is suffering from a mysterious malady which is puzzling the physicians to diagnose, it was learned today. Minister of Justice Kafandaris said the famous stateman's illness is not believed to be serious and that he is already showing improvement.

"But the ailment from which the Premier is suffering is a most mysterious one," added Kafandaris. "Sometimes the symptoms disappear entirely at other times they become so aggravated that the patient appears to be dying. The chief fear of the doctors is that the strain will weaken the heart."

CALL LEADERS TO SETTLE ULSTER ROW

Premier MacDonald Opens Up Delicate Task of Smoothing Out Boundary Dispute

London, Feb. 1 (I.N.S.).—Premier MacDonald today took up the difficult task of settling the boundary dispute between the Irish Free State and Ulster province. The Free State claims that the political opinions of several counties along the border justifies the Dublin government in annexing them.

Both the Free State and Ulster governments were invited to send representatives to London for a conference this afternoon. President William Cosgrave will represent the Dublin government and Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster, will represent Belfast.

Premier MacDonald said he had no course but to enforce the Anglo-Irish treaty which provides that the boundary question shall be settled by a commission.

The sessions will be held at the colonial office. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Colonies, acting as mediator.

MISSION AND AID BODY MERGE WORK

The work of the Boston North End Mission will be carried on through the offices of the Children's Aid Association, according to a temporary agreement between the two organizations, Dr. E. Z. Conrad, president of the board of directors of the Mission announced. The board will continue to function as in the past, bearing the cost of Mission work, but subscriptions will be handled through the offices of the Childrens' Aid Association.

ESCAPED MARLBORO PRISONER IS SHOT

Roland O'Blenes, the youth who escaped in Boston Tuesday from Marlboro police officers who were taking him to the East Cambridge jail, was shot in the leg and captured early today in Lewiston, Me. He had been arrested there on a charge of attempted burglary. O'Blenes was arrested by the Marlboro police charged with attacking Bragg, and escaped on his way to a fifteen-year-old crippled girl, Mary jail.

O'RYAN WANTS FORBES 'RING' CLEANED OUT

Report Also Says 40 Per Cent. of Veterans in Hospital Do Not Need Treatment

Washington, Feb. 1 (I.N.S.)—"Unparalleled waste, recklessness and misconduct" in the administration of the United States Veteran's Bureau during the directorship of Col. Charles R. Forbes, was charged today by Major-General John F. O'Ryan, government counsel, in his final report on the investigation conducted by the Reed committee of the Senate.

O'Ryan said that many of the men who determined the policies of the bureau during the Forbes regime still hold their jobs, and he recommends that Brigadier-General Frank L. Hines, the present director, dispense with their services.

"Great waste and ineffective effort" has prevailed in the expenditure of approximately half a billion dollars for vocational education, O'Ryan declared, while 40 per cent of the veterans now in government hospitals are not in need of hospital treatment.

Colonel Forbes' administration of the bureau was pointed to by O'Ryan as the "outstanding cause" of the unsatisfactory conditions in the bureau up to February, 1923.

"The statements of Colonel Forbes while on the stand, and the testimony of other witnesses, all have so enmeshed him with the machinations and purposes of the ring of conspirators," O'Ryan said, "as clearly to establish his intimated relations with them and their plans."

PEORIA SILENT ON QUERY; HOGUE FREED

William C. Hogue, former city treasurer of Peoria, Ill., under arrest here as a fugitive from justice, was released by Judge Murray in Municipal Court today after Special Officer Lynch had told the court that Peoria officials had not answered his wires asking for warrants and specifications. Hogue was alleged to have embezzled funds of the city of Peoria and to have deserted a wife and three children. He admitted his identity when arrested here last week.

$70,000 BLAZE IN PAWTUCKET BLOCK

Pawtucket, Feb. 1.—Fire today caused damage estimated at $70,000 to a three-story building in Park Place owned by the Shartenberg Company and to stock in several stores. The heaviest loss was on the stock of Joyce Brothers, clothing, chiefly from smoke and water.

COAL FIRE MENACES SALEM GAS TANKS

Salem, Feb. 1.—Fire which has been burning since last Monday in several thousand tons of soft coal threatens to blow up the Salem Gas plant. Efforts of firemen to halt the blaze has been unavailing. The coal is burning steadily and is near enough to the gas plant's huge tanks to alarm residents.

TRADING TIME SHIFT BLOCKED IN CHICAGO

By a vote of 502 to 220 the Chicago Board of Trade voted against the extension of time for trading from 1.15 p. m. to 2 p. m. The grain board of the Boston Chamber of Commerce telegraphed to Chicago, protesting against the proposed extension of time on the ground that cash prices for the day would not then be available until after 2 o'clock, so that mail quotations could not reach country dealers throughout New England in time for acceptances before the next opening.

STATE FINANCE BOARD SAVED MORE THAN COST ON ONE ITEM

$200,000 CUT FROM COST OF PRINTING, SAYS REPORT

The commission on administration and finance, appointed by Governor Cox in December, 1922, filed its first annual report with the House today.

The report starts off with a review of the work of the commission and the opposition encountered at the State House. "It will never be popular," says the report itself.

Some things mentioned in the report are bound to start something in the Legislature, where the commission is already a storm centre. There is a paragraph headed "Travel Requests," which says that the commission refused a request by a House committee to allow $1,100 out of $2,000 appropriated for a soldier's memorial for travel expenses.

Costs of State printing come in for much attention in the report and the contract held by Wright & Potter, State printers, is attacked as not safeguarding the interests of the State.

TELLS OF SAVINGS

The commission invites attention to many savings accomplished through its efforts. Four hundred employes who are being paid mileage rates for the use of their automobiles while on State's business have had the rate reduced practically by half by the commission.

The new mileage rates "are based on Ford costs," says the report, "and in the opinion of the commission, adequately compensate an owner for any additional cost due to State service.

The report, which covers twenty-five pages, is signed by the four members of the commission, Homer Loring, R. L. Whipple, Thomas W. White and James C. Cormick.

The introduction and some of the high lights follow:

"This commission was appointed by Governor Cox in December, 1922. It absorbed from the supervisor of administration the control of personnel and preparation of the budget to which duties were added the new bureaus of purchasing and comptroller.

"The expenses for the commission for the first year were:

| | |
|---|---|
| Salaries of 4 commissioners | $25,508 |
| Salaries of 4 commissioners | $25,508.05 |
| Salaries of other employes | 94,126.26 |
| Other expenses | 17,413.85 |
| Total | $137,048.85 |

NET COST $48,000.

"Deducting the salaries and expenses of employes, transferred from other departments, the net cost of the commission to the State was approximately $48,000.

"The creation of the commission was openly opposed by the heads of some departments, who disliked to turn over any of their authority to a business commission. The resistance of these officials is being overcome, as they are able to see substantial money savings to the State from standardization, quantity purchasing and general financial supervision.

"The commission has had thrust upon it a multitude of disagreeable duties and necessarily must refuse many requests each day. It never will be popular. If it should, it would be conclusive that it was failing to function properly.

"In 1922 printing and paper cost the State $400,000. This enormous amount was purchased without adequate supervision. The result was waste and extravagance. For example, in November, 1923, 12,000 sur-

Wins Divorce

MME. MARGARET MATZENAUER

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—Mme. Margaret Matzenauer is again a free "orchid," and Floyd Glotzbach, her chauffeur husband, can return to his native status of "Wild Mustard."

Judge Frank Murasky did the magical magic when he granted Mme. Matzenauer, the noted diva, a final decree of divorce from Glotzbach. The decree ended proceedings which have been in progress for two years.

Judge Morasky arraigned Glotzbach for having told friends that Mme. Matzenauer "inveigled" him into marriage "while drunk."

FEDERALS ROUT REBELS NEAR VERA CRUZ

Mexican Insurgents Flee Before Steady Advance of Obregon Forces Toward Sea

Mexico City, Feb. 1 (A.P.).—The Federal cavalry has reached Fortin, near Cordoba, in its advance upon Vera Cruz, according to a War Department announcement, which also states that General Urbalejo has occupied Orizaba without resistance.

Official announcement of future Federal movements was withheld, but it was intimated that capture of Cordoba is considered probable since the failure of the revolutionists to defend Orizaba and their precipitate retreat after their defeat at Esperanza indicates they have no ready reserves.

Indications are that the Federals will attempt to take advantage of the broken morale of the fleeing rebels and try to dominate the difficult country in the vicinity of Metlac Bridge and adjacent tunnels.

GLORIA SWANSON MAY STARTLE YALE

New Haven, Feb. 1.—The immediate sensation of Yale's approaching junior prom, marked in some other years by high jinks, is the announcement made by John Dodge Hough of Chicago, a senior, that he will have Gloria Swanson as his partner.

Complications arose a year ago, when a student had a prominent Follies girl for partner, and the faculty were called on to straighten things out.

ESKIMO HANGED AS SLAYER OF POLICEMAN

Pays Penalty With Comrade for Killing a Mountie in Fatal Native Love Row

Edmonton, Alta., Feb. 1.—Two Eskimos, Alik Omiak and Tetamang-a, went to the gallows today at the Royal Canadian mounted police barracks at Herschell Island and paid the death penalty for killing Corporal Doak of the Mounted, and Otto Binder, Coronation Gulf trader.

The tragedy which resulted in the death of the two white men, as well as several Eskimos, grew out of a feud which began when Binder fell in love with a native girl.

She was already promised in marriage to a member of her tribe, but opinion of the group was divided as to whether she might not disregard his betrothal and marry this white man, and arguments ended in bloodshed.

Corporal Doak was killed by Omiak, whom he had arrested for his part in the feud.

JERSEY FIRE DRIVES 1,000 INTO STREETS

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 1.—Fire today destroyed the Florence Brothers Wood Turning Company plant and badly damaged two other buildings in the heart of the tenement district, causing an estimated loss of $300,000. More than 1,000 people, mostly women and children, were forced to leave their homes by firemen, who feared the flames would spread to tenements.

The fire was discovered by 6-year-old William Brown, who was awakened in his home near the plant by light from the flames. No one was injured.

MASS MEETING TO TELL TRUTH ABOUT BONUS

Opponents of Vets Measure Invited to Hear Speakers at Mechanics Hall

The truth, dispassionately told, concerning the bonus for ex-service men, is the object of the mass-meeting for citizens of Boston and Massachusetts to be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in Mechanics Hall.

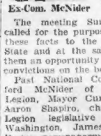
The meeting is being held under the direction of Massachusetts Department of the American Legion and a general appeal has been sent out for citizens to attend, no matter what beliefs they may hold concerning adjusted compensation for the men who served in the World War.

Mayor Curley

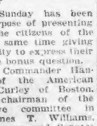
Senator Walsh

An effort will be made at the meeting to present all the facts concerning the proposed bonus. The question of a sharp reduction in the Federal taxes in the United States will be taken up.

Leaders of the Legion declare that the ex-service men not only approve of a tax rate reduction, but are also among the strongest advocates of such a measure. They declare, however, that the compensation long promised to the ex-soldiers and sailors can be paid at the same time that the taxes are reduced.



Ex-Com. McNider



Gen. Edwards

The meeting Sunday has been called for the purpose of presenting these facts to the citizens of the State and at the same time giving them an opportunity to express their convictions on the bonus question.

Past National Commander Hanford McNider of the American Legion, Mayor Curley of Boston, Aaron Shapiro, chairman of the Legion legislative committee in Washington, James T. Williams, Boston newspaperman and Senator David I. Walsh will be among the speakers.

Major General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the State Department of the American Legion will preside and will also deliver an address.

HUSBAND TOLD HIS LOVE SUIT WAS MISTAKE

Whitinsville Man Thought Another Had Won His Wife; Wanted $25,000

Worcester, Feb. 1.—Harry Simmons, a dock builder of New London, didn't steal the affections of Mrs. George Bouvier of Whitinsville, even if he did write to her that he looked for her weekly letters with as much eagerness as a child looks for candy.

A jury passed on the case, returned a verdict in favor of Simmons, who was sued for $25,000 damages by George Bouvier, the husband, who claimed he had been wronged.

Bouvier's attorneys also offered in evidence a letter alleged to have been written by Simmons in which he offered to send a baby's crib to Mrs. Bouvier when he believed she was soon to become a mother.

Bouvier, on the stand, admitted that he had left his wife when he might live here for him had grown old.

SAYS AMERICA HAS MOST DOPE USERS

London, Feb. 1—The United States is the world's most neurotic country, with Britain a close second, said Dr. Walter E. Dixon, Cambridge University professor, in a lecture on "drug addicts" at the Royal Institution. Neurotics are easy drug victims, he asserted, adding that coffee and tea are drugs, as well as alcohol. "Anyone who smokes twenty cigarettes a day puts 5 per cent. of his blood out of play," Dr. Dixon opined.

Inexperienced Girls Find Jobs Scarce

The American prints today another story of a girl's search for a job in Boston.

All "ads" look tempting to a girl on a hunt for a job, but Thursday morning's "ads" seemed especially well put.

"Wanted—A young woman with a pleasing personality to take charge of an office. No previous experience required."

The name of the photographer appeared under the ad.

At 9 o'clock, Johnny-on-the-spot, I was at the designated place, and what greeted me? Crowds! The entrance was crowded, the stairway was crowded, and presumably the office was crowded with young women "with pleasing personalities."

There were at least fifty girls ahead of me. Sad-eyed, I turned away and proceeded to the Boylston street photographer who wanted women for pleasant work. "Not house-to-house canvassing."

MUST APPRECIATE ART.

I opened the door and went in. A large lady with roses on her hat preceded me. It was a selling proposition of a sort. One took orders for "daguerreotypes" at $50 a picture. The commission was 20 per cent.

"If you don't appreciate art, there's no use in trying to do this work," the blonde young woman in charge was telling my predecessor.

The large lady decided to think it over, as she wanted work that paid her a regular salary. It was my turn.

The process was explained to me as it had been to the large lady. Then the young woman said:

"We want women who intend to really work. There was a woman who worked for us and she'd make $35 or $40 in one day and call it a week's work and loaf the rest of the time. We don't want people who do that."

Unsophisticated I may have been. But not enough to fall for that, although I admired the line she had.

"Can you give me any idea about how much I could earn?"

"That would depend entirely on you."

I like the large lady before me, decided to think it over.

There was a third "ad" to be answered. There was a dentist on Hanover street who wanted someone for office work. "Ten dollars a week to start."

I climbed a flight of dirty stairs and entered where the sign "Dentist" and an arrow indicated the entrance to be. A young woman in a white apron and a mild manner asked me my name.

"I've come in answer to the 'ad' in the papers."

"POSITION FILLED."

"The position has been filled," she told me. And I gathered it was she who filled it.

My "ads" for inexperienced help were exhausted.

I walked along Washington street gazing hopefully into windows to see if there were any help wanted signs in them. There were not.

A big building where candy, sodas and luncheons are served loomed ahead. I went in. Towards the rear of the first floor I noticed a woman in a dark blue dress who, I thought, might have charge. I approached her and she drew out a chair at one of the tables, evidently thinking I was a customer. I was delighted.

"I'm looking for work." I explained. She smiled nicely.

"If you go upstairs you'll see the office right in front of you."

I did. I waited while a young person kept herself busy doing nothing. I wanted to stick a pin in her. There's a certain type of young person who wants to be impressive the minute they have a little authority.

HIRING WAITRESSES.

"Are you hiring any girls?" I asked.

"Tomorrow morning, go over to West street. They're hiring waitresses there at nine."

"Any experience necessary?"

"No!" She was withering.

That sounds likely, I decided. In the meantime there was another employment bureau which I had not been to. I went there.

"I'm awfully sorry," a young man said to me, "but we haven't a thing for inexperienced girls. There are very few jobs these days and a lot of women looking for work."

"I know it." And when I said that I meant it.

In the morning I planned to try to get work as a waitress.

Another job-hunting story in tomorrow's Boston American.

FINANCE REPORT

plus volumes of reports of the Constitutional Convention, costing $15,000 for which there was no possible use, were sold as scrap paper for $637.

"Another annual publication of 1,300 pages, which cost $12,000 in 1922, was entirely discontinued. All printing is now closely supervised.

SAVING OF $201,475.

|---|---|
| Cost of miscellaneous printing and paper in 1922 | $607,748 |
| Cost of miscellaneous printing and paper in 1923 | 406,273 |
| Decrease | $201,475 |

"One of the unpleasant duties of this Commission is to pass on travel requests. People like to travel, particularly at the expense of the State. One of the first travel requests to be presented was as follows: The 1922 Legislature appropriated $2,000 to erect a soldiers' memorial in Cuba. The Committee appointed to carry out the project requested permission to spend $1,100 of the $2,000 appropriated for a trip to Cuba, to select a suitable site. The request was refused.

"It is the policy of this Commission to recommend travel whenever the advantages appear sufficient to offset the expense and the loss of time. That this is not a severe restriction is indicated by the fact that officials and employes traveled in 1923, to conventions and meetings outside of the State, a total of 101,000 miles.

MORE ROOM NEEDED.

"The commission reported against a new building for the Supreme Judicial Court, and recommended an expenditure of $15,000 to improve the present quarters in the Suffolk County Courthouse.

"The commission believes that within a few years it will be advisable for the State to erect an office building in the rear of the State House, to care for the growth of departments and those now housed in rented buildings. At that time suitable quarters for the Supreme Court can be provided in a wing of the State House.

"State printing affords a remarkable example of the waste which inevitably results from uncontrolled expenditure of public funds. The statistician of the Webster commission figured that the books, pamphlets, etc., printed for the State each, if piled sheet upon sheet, would reach a height thirty-six times as high as the Custom House tower.

"In 1922 the State paid Wright & Potter, State printers, $634,000. Paper purchased amounted to $115,000, a total cost of printing for 12 months of approximately $800,000.

"With the exception of editing the public document series, comprising 10 per cent. of the total, this enormous amount of printing was purchased without supervision. One employe checked the bills, but seldom, if ever, made any effort to reduce the cost. The result was rapidly growing extravagance in matters of printing.

"Wright & Potter have held the State printing contract almost every year since 1860. The present contract commenced July 1, 1922, and terminates July 1, 1924. In our opinion, the interests of the State were not sufficiently safeguarded in this contract."

MOYSE FREED OF NEGLECT CHARGE

Exonerated When Christian Science Treatment of the Crippled Boy Is Told

Harry Moyse of Wayland was exonerated in the Framingham Juvenile Court today of charges that he had neglected his fourteen-year-old son Walter.

The case hinged on the treatment of the boy for a bone trouble in one of his thighs, which improved under Christian Science treatment after other methods had been unavailing. The father testified that he had called in doctors for his boy and they had treated him and that no fault had been found in the Science practitioner until his son asked for one.

Testifying were Dr Charles Avery of Worcester, who said the boy needed an operation to remedy his trouble; Dr. Clarence Crane of Boston, who said the boy was doing well, and two Science practitioners who told of treatments.

The case was heard by Edwin C Jenney, Boston attorney, acting as auditor. Prosecution was conducted by attorneys for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. They asked that proceedings be dismissed

WOULD LIMIT ALIENS ON 1890 BIRTH BASIS

Washington, Feb. 1.—A bill providing restriction of immigration in this country to 2 per cent. of the foreign born of each nation here in 1890 and permitting virtual selection of the immigrants at the port of embarkation was ordered favorably reported in the House today by the immigration committee.

Congressman Charles L. Underhill of the Ninth District will not support the bill, he states. Congress, in a letter to Major Lawrence F. Quigg of Pelham, Congressman Underhill says the proposed bill contains "good features, but there seems to me to be grave objectionable provisions of serious concern and because of these I do not believe I can give my measure my support."

IS CLIMAX TO 'HAVE ONE LITTLE DRINK'

FOR MOONSHINE VICTIM.

This is a pictorial lesson for the girl who drinks moonshine rather than "spoil the party." She invariably lands in the hospital and the sketch shows how the stomach pump is used to rid her of the poison. Photo shows the stomach pump. It requires no imagination to realize how nauseating is the experience.

STOMACH PUMP AWAITS GIRLS WHO DRINK

City Hospital Warns of Serious Consequences of Moonshine

Beware, girls, or the stomach pump will get you if you don't watch out!

When you are offered a glass of moonshine which may have been adulterated with ether, spirits of cologne, or what not, you may not always take your life in your hands, but you pay a heavy temporary penalty which is exacted chiefly by the stomach pump.

An authority at the City Hospital today described the treatment which must be undergone by young women who have taken a drink of this vicious alcoholic concoction, and are frequently picked up in the street in an unconscious condition.

"First of all, the doctor said "the girl's stomach is pumped out to prevent further absorption of alcohol into the system.

"First, the victim is laid on a table, the stomach tube is inserted in her mouth; a quantity of water poured into the funnel, which is attached to the other end of the tube, and the funnel is placed over a basin at an angle lower than the patient's body.

"We call this process 'syphoning.'

"If the patient is unconscious, and the stomach content is small, we sometime have to unscrew the funnel and attach a bulb in its place, which is squeezed by the physician, and the suction draws off the poison.

"After the stomach pump has done its work, the patient is given a hot bath, a sedative and put to bed. Twenty-four hours usually brings her to normal; forty-eight at the most. Plain food, sleep and rest complete the treatment."

Mrs. Monroe, who is said to be residing in Berlin, N. H., recently instituted action for divorce. The couple had not been living together for some time.

On two of the first three shipments on which Hartwell cleaned up a fortune he paid investors the guaranteed 20 per cent. The bootleg Ponzi has aroused public interest in England. He is a lieutenant colonel.

Simultaneously with Hartwell's shipments here a New York firm yesterday exported $1,000,000 worth of whiskey imported three years ago. They could not meet bootleg prices in attempting to sell for medicinal purposes.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Jad Salts to Flush Kidneys if Your Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up, and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness and bladder irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys act badly, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean, thereby avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

DETECTIVE TELLS OF 'BRIBE' PLOT IN MAINE LOVE SUIT

SHWARTZ 'MATCHMAKER' SPIED ON BY SLEUTHS

By BERT FORD

Portland, Me., Feb. 1.—Police Inspector Thomas E. Quinn today testified at the trial of Veta Gerber's $100,000 love suit against David Shwartz, millionaire realtor, that the demand on Shwartz for $4,000 by Louis Averback, the "matchmaker," and his son, Max, had been reported to County Attorney Clement F. Robinson.

County Attorney Robinson has publicly announced that he is investigating the matter. Rumors of early arrests are heard in official circles. The third day of the trial of the attractive divorcee's breach of promise suit against the wealthy bank director was fraught with feverish expectancy.

Inspector Quinn thrilled a packed courtroom with a word-picture of how he and Inspector William White crouched in a close behind a book case in David Shwartz's office on January 19, heard Averback and his son ask Shwartz to pay the senior Averback to testify for him at the trial.

Inspector White with the aid of his police flashlight, jotted down notes of the interview screening the pocket light with his overcoat so that no rays might trickle through the apertures purposely made in the back of the bookcase.

David Shwartz Atty. Pattangall

HIDDEN IN OFFICE

"On orders from the chief of police," said Inspector Quinn, Inspector White and I went to Shwartz's office [illegible] 10 o'clock. There we [illegible] attorney. We [illegible] then we got behind a bookcase and entered a closet.

"A little later Schwartz and his son Harry came in with Louis and Max Averback. Inspector White screened his flashlight with his overcoat and took notes. Louis Averback was always in plain view. He did most of the talking in Yiddish, but Max used English.

"For a few minutes they just chatted general and smoked cigarettes.

"Then Harry Schwartz mentioned a proposition that had been made at an earlier talk by Louis Averback about the Gerber girl's father offering $4,000 to testify for his daughter. The conversation showed that Averback had told Schwartz that Gerber had the $4,000 with a man whose identity was not disclosed.

WANTED $4,000 CASH

"Max Averback spoke up and said if David Shwartz paid his father $4,000 in cash or bought back a house he had sold them and pay $21,000 for the property, the senior Averback would testify for him.

"Max said 'if father testifies for you it will be the truth.' The father nodded at what Max said.

"Harry Shwartz said, 'I understand your father has been to Hinckley a [illegible] three or four times.'

"Max replied, 'Yes, father has made a statement to Mr. Hinckley and signed it with a cross instead of his name but he would rather appear for you at the trial than for the Gerbers. If he tells the truth it will be in your favor and injure the other side.'

"The conversation showed that the Averbacks expected to be paid the $4,000 by Gerber after the trial and that another man had made good for [illegible] but his name was not mentioned.

"David Shwartz kept saying, 'Tell the truth. Tell the truth. He repeated that many times during the interview.

"The Averbacks explained that Gerber had given Louis Averback, the father, a couple of drinks and induced him to Attorney Hinckley's office where he made a statement [illegible] with a cross.'

"Harry Shwartz asked how they would get around that statement. Louis Averback replied, 'Well, I and a couple of drinks and I can give as an excuse that when a man has been drinking he does not know what he is doing.'

"After a while Max Averback and his father went into a front office, and coming out a few minutes later Max [illegible] 'This is our proposition. You make out a note to Harry Feuerman for $21,000 and we will test it in your favor.'

"David Shwartz asked if they were the principal witnesses. Max replied 'yes' and his father nodded.

"When Louis Averback entered the office on behalf of the prosecution he [illegible] $2,000 after the trial when the verdict might be put $1,000 or less.

"Max replied, 'Oh, we'll be all right. Hinckley doesn't take anything on percent.'

WILL BARE MURPHY'S SECRETS

Attorney Scharton Asks the Court's Advice; Might Mean the Rollins Boys' Release

William R. Scharton, Pemberton square attorney, who says he was given certain information by Jesse Murphy, which if generally known would lead to the release from State Prison of George and Charles Rollins of Dorchester, serving life sentences for the murders of A. and P. Tea Store managers in 1917, wants permission to tell Murphy's secrets.

"Murphy," a Worcester man, whose right name is Dunker was convicted of murder yesterday in Detroit and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Scharton, since Murphy was freed in Boston of the crime which was lodged against the Rollins brothers, has said repeatedly that if Murphy ever again became involved with the law in such a way as to merit capital punishment or a life sentence, Scharton would take steps to have the Rollins boys pardoned.

TO APPEAR IN COURT.

To that end Attorney Scharton it was said today, is preparing to appear tomorrow before Judge Lawton in the Superior Court and ask for advice on the question of ethics.

"Should a lawyer tell?" The ethics of the profession forbids one of its members to disclose information received from a client. Mr. Scharton, however, is said to claim the possession of secrets which, in view of the life sentences of the Rollins brothers, worry him. He does not want to be solely responsible for keeping these secrets to himself.

OF INTEREST TO LAWYERS.

While developments in the case will be watched with interest by members of the bar generally, none will be more interested than Municipal Judge Welsh and Judge Thomas H. Connelly, who appeared for George and Charles Rollins and were successful in saving the former from the electric chair.

In the underworld it is said to have been common gossip that the man known as "Murphy" and two of his pals were mixed up in the A. & P. killings and that the Rollins boys were innocent.

Detroit appears to have been much impressed by Murphy's, or Dunker's story of his life from boyhood days. It was, in parts, much like the speech he delivered to the Boston jury which released him. He had rehearsed that Boston speech for two weeks in Charles Street Jail. It was, in fact, one of two pleas which he had written out and rehearsed, finding it difficult to choose between them, until he [illegible] from the outside to come and [illegible] to both.

DAVE SHADE AND TED MOORE IN RING BATTLE TONIGHT

FINNEGAN TO TACKLE JACKS

By JACK CONWAY

Dave Shade, a riot as a welter weight, will make his debut as a middleweight tonight when he clashes with Ted Moore of England in a ten-round skirmish at the Lafayette A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building.

Shade proved one of the big winners in the welterweight class. His amazing speed and ability to punch from any angle enabled him to conquer most of the opposition without much effort.

Nate Siegel, Paul Doyle, George Ward and Eddie Shevlin went down to defeat before the Leo Flynn entry in contests in this city.

Shade, naturally large, found difficulty in keeping at the welter weight limit of 147 pounds. Rather than nap the Californian's vitality Flynn decided to campaign with Shade in the middleweight division. When Dave completed his training for his tussle with Moore he scaled at 156 pounds. Moore weighed 157½ pounds when he ended his preliminary work.

SHADE EAGER TO BOX MALONE OR WILSON

If Shade should win over Moore he will continue in the middle weights. He is prepared to try conclusions with ever Jack Malone and Johnny Wilson.

It cannot be said that Shade is picking an easy opponent for his bow as a middleweight. Moore is one of the best middleweights that has ever come to this country from England. He is managed by Tom O'Rourke who believes the Briton has the class to conquer Shade and Malone.

Moore showed here recently against Tommy Loughran in the Boston arena after ten torrid rounds of mixing. It would be hard to hold the loss against Moore. The latter, like Malone and Wilson is a small middleweight while Loughran is a light-heavyweight who showed over Harry Greb and Mike McTigue to his credit.

MALONE'S SPEED WORK OF ENGLISH MIDDLEWEIGHTS

After his bout with Todd, Malone said:

"These English middleweights are a hard lot. I rank Todd the greatest fighter I have ever met with the possible exception of Jack Britton. Tommy Walsh, my manager, figured I would win by a comfortable margin. Between the eighth and the ninth rounds when I was wondering whether Todd or myself would get the decision, I told Tommy he may be a very good looking scout but that he is a mighty poor judge of fighters. I would rather battle Walsh twice than tackle Todd again.

Nick Barrasso and Louis Andrews will battle for the light weight championship of New England when they meet in a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at the scenic Temple rink in Boston. There is considerable rivalry between these men and a bitter contest is expected. Jim Zentveli will oppose Nick Bozinis in the semi-final, while a preliminary will bring together Tommy Record and James Treplion.

FAST RELAY RACES WILL FEATURE GREAT UNICORN MEET

HARVARD TO MEET YALE IN FINAL

Soapie Walters

[illegible] teams, boasting of some of the fastest talent in [illegible] and club ranks come up to the take at the annual B. A. A. track games at the Arena. It is considered one of the best relay programs ever laid out in Boston indoor racing [illegible]. There will be fifteen [illegible]

Yale vs Harvard (varsity).
Tech vs. Harvard.
Yale vs. Harvard (freshmen).
Andover vs. Tech.
B. A. A. vs. N. Y. A. C.
Newark A. C. vs. Holy Cross vs. Georgetown.
Colby vs. B. U. vs. Tufts.
B. C. vs. Holy Cross vs. Georgetown.
Worcester Poly vs. Rensselaer vs. Northeastern.
Dartmouth vs. Brown vs. Bowdoin.
B. U. vs. Holy Cross vs. Tufts (freshmen).
Syracuse vs. Dartmouth vs. Tech.
Maine vs. N. H. U. vs. S. A. C.
Dartmouth vs. M. I. T. vs. Maine (freshmen).
Bates vs. Amherst vs. Vermont.

The feature of the evening's relay program, of course, will be the Harvard-Yale affair. The [illegible] usually produces more fight and competition [illegible] tops off the evening's performance in a bang-up manner. Besides, then [illegible] hundreds of collegians [illegible] behind to give the event a rousing [illegible] send-off.

Harvard has built up a powerful relay quartet in Soapie Waters, Bob Allen, Cutchemos and Kane. Coach Eddie Farrell declares that it is one of the fastest that he has ever coached, and expects to see it crack a few records.

Yale has beaten Harvard for the past two years, but Farrell believes that this year he has the stuff in his relay team to turn the tide of fortune. All the Crimson runners are in fine shape, especially Soapie Walters, who has been turning in some great time. If Bob Allen, the other Crimson mainstay, is in form, Harvard should prove to be a tough nut for Yale to crack.

Little is known about the Yale team. Coach Conners has kept it pretty well under cover. It is understood, however, that the team has lots of speed and that Harvard is in for a surprise. A fine race hangs in the balance.

Fourteen other races are on the program. There's the Harvard-Yale freshman battle and the three-cornered Boston College-Holy Cross-Tufts freshman tussle, and those two events should produce plenty of excitement. Andover and Exeter who last year furnished the major part of the fireworks, are pitted together again.

'CARMEN' TO BE BROADCAST TONIGHT

American's Resume of Opera Aids Listeners to Follow Action

The opera "Carmen" will be broadcast entire tonight from the Boston Opera House by WNAC, the Shepard Stores.

Below is a resume of the opera, arranged in acts which will assist the radio listener to understand the action accompanying the singing.

ACT I

Soldiers are waiting. Michaela, a village girl, appears. She seeks a brigadier (Don Jose), bearing a message from his mother. The officer on guard invites her to wait. She declines, and departs. The relief guard (Don Jose) come on. The square is crowded. Don Jose is introduced.

Girls enter, and young men inquire for Carmen, who asserts her desire for universal dominion by flinging at the silent Don Jose the flower she wears in her dress. Factory bells ring. Girls hasten to work. Don Jose's blood is roused; but the arrival of Michaela with a letter and purse from his mother, calms him and he resolves to stifle the sudden passion Carmen has excited, and devote himself, as his mother wishes, to Michaela.

She has scarcely gone, and Don Jose is about to throw Carmen's flower away, when a noise is heard in the factory. The girls rush out. Two of them have quarreled. One of them is wounded—her assailant is Carmen. Jose is ordered to take her into custody. She is saucy to the officer. He resolves on sending her to prison. At the foot of the bridge a sudden push from Carmen throws Don Jose down and she escapes.

ACT II

Carmen is at an inn with friends. They sing and dance. Officers and soldiers are here also. The captain is fascinated by Carmen. A new arrival, Escamillo, the victorious bull-fighter of Grenada appears. Soldiers and gypsies welcome him. He devotes himself to Carmen. Escamillo and soldiers depart, but two smugglers, having booty in view, seek Carmen's assistance. She refuses to accompany them, telling them she is waiting for her lover.

The smugglers try to persuade Carmen to induce Jose to join their band. She agrees, and when the enamoured brigadier arrives Carmen tempts him to stay, in spite of the trumpet of recall.

He refuses to become a deserter and is about to quit her, when an officer forces his way in and orders him out. Sabres are drawn. Carmen calls for aid. The gypsies appear. The officer is made a prisoner, whilst the gypsies, Carmen and Jose escape to the mountains.

ACT III

The contrabandists are busy. Jose is there with Carmen, whose love is waning. He still adores her, though stung by remorse for his mother. All are quitting the haunt when Escamillo arrives. He has toiled up the rocks in pursuit of Carmen, and, not knowing Jose, reveals his passion to him. A fight is about to take place, but Carmen and the smugglers rush in and separate them. Jose upbraids Carmen. The sudden appearance of Michaela compels him to leave. He hesitates, but duty prevails, and he follows Michaela.

ACT IV

A bull-fight is about to begin. Escamillo is there with the brigadier Carmen. He departs. Carmen's gypsy friends warn her that Jose is in search of her. She will not conceal herself, and resolves to brave him. Jose comes. He tries to rekindle the old love. Carmen will not listen. Maddened with her joy at the triumph of Escamillo, Jose stabs her, and Carmen falls dead at the victorious bull-fighter's feet.

CURTIS GIVES POINTERS ON DX WORK

Distance Work Is the Exception and Not the Rule in Radio Today

By SAMUEL CURTIS

When John Jones or Henry Smith first gets his radio set, the first thing he does is to see how far he can receive with it. He sneaks up early the early morning hours twisting dials and wagging rheostats, and finally hits the hay about two a. m. He gets up the next morning with a big head, is grouchy to his wife, and goes to the office in poor shape for the day's grind. If he is successful in fishing out some station a thousand miles away, of course he feels that his time hasn't been entirely wasted.

On the other hand, it doesn't improve his good nature any, if all he brings in is squeals and howls aside from local stations.

All one has to do is to commune a few mornings on the old New Haven to become a full fledged "radio expert." One hears about Neutrodynes, Reflex, Supers and what not. One would almost think some of these birds were real veterans at the art were it not for the fact that they all say it the same way entirely by the avidity with which they discuss "long distance" reception.

We all know that our own local station, WNAC, has been heard both on the West Coast and across the Atlantic. How many of us know that the guaranteed range of the Shepard broadcasting station is given as but fifty miles by the manufacturers?

The Shepard station is of 100 watts power. The average station which we are in the habit of listening for from the Middle West, uses 500 watts power. The guaranteed range of these outfits is but approximately 300 miles.

There is a long-standing rule for ship operators at sea always to give their messages to the nearest shore station. The radio companies realize that over-sea distances can be covered under certain conditions, but certain conditions do not exist all the time.

Some months ago the American Telephone & Telegraph Company made some transatlantic radio telephone tests. They used a wave length of approximately six thousand meters, and a power of something around twenty thousand watts.

We read newspaper accounts of how WGY in Schenectady is being heard in Europe on three hundred and eight meters. At first thought this feat seems remarkable, but on second consideration, what permanent value has such an occurrence? But if such reception on this comparatively low wave length and small power could be consistently maintained, day and night, Summer and Winter, it would then be something to dote over.

We, as a radio nation, are but amateurs. Some of us are loath to admit it. Some of the leading engineers of the Western Electric Company, the General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Electric Company are steadily hammering on the development of wire-less telephone communication. The Bell system realize its advantages as an adjunct to their many millions of miles of wire lines.

There will be a day come shortly when we will have twenty four hour telephone service with Europe. It will be likewise no difficult feat to get comfortably in our living room on a cold winter's night, and converse over the telephone with a friend aboard one of the big liners in mid ocean.

For in the meantime we, as amateurs, will have to console ourselves to the moderately low standard of our REAL money-no-goodness of entertainment.

The Listener

Have you heard the dance orchestra in the Hampton Hotel, Albany, N. Y., broadcast once a week by WGY? Snappy organization and a fine selection of popular numbers.

Uncle Wip who broadcasts a nightly bedtime story and children's recital from WIP, Philadelphia, is one of the most popular on the air as per parently. Children from all over the East and Middle West write to him and he answers each letter by radio, calling each youngster by name.

This month marks the recurrence of WEAF's efforts to revive the grandmother joke. A notice from that station says, "Many grandmothers will die Monday afternoon at the office boys' league gets the details of WEAF's program. The Pirates' Den Trio; Fred Whitehouse tenor, and Dora J. Applebaum, lyric soprano, will contribute to the program . . ." Well, WEAF, it'll have to be a pretty weak grandma to succumb to such a program. Now, if a fight were being broadcast by Major White, I'd expect all five of my office boys to go into mourning.

Speaking of the cussedness of women. Ten minutes can go by without a word passing between Mrs. Listener and myself—but it's a hundred to one that if I put on the headset she'll think of a question to ask inside of thirty seconds. And then I have to lift the phones away from my ears and say, "Huh?"

Radio Queries

Radio Editor:

I have two Remmone units on Waltham condensers, but find that it will not go down to KDKA. What is the trouble? Joseph Robuck.

New Bedford

These units will positively go down to 200 meters. KDKA should fade at about twenty-three on the dials. The coils are either defective or else you have wired the set in such a way as to decrease the wave length of the coils. This is probably your trouble, because a defective coil is not likely to increase the wave length of the coils but would rather cut down the wave length so that the coil would not respond to the higher wave lengths. This would be caused by a few turns being shorted.

Radio Editor:

I have made one Super and it works wonderfully well, but my second one has a sound in the second stage that sounds like a tick of a clock. William Axon.

Providence

It is hard to say just what is wrong, but your grid circuit has evidently a leak somewhere, such an action approaching oscillation. Many things will cause such a condition, but it would require a test to determine the exact cause.

Radio Editor

I can get only one on my crystal set. Why can't I get broadcast?

Boston. F. T. Crommett.

Your set is evidently not tuning down to the broadcast wave length. At your home you are quite a distance out for a crystal set. A one-tube receiver would suit you better, rather than trying to increase the power of the crystal set. Watch the Radio Column for a new one-tube set which you can easily build yourself. This set is very efficient for a single tube.

Radio Editor:

Has the Baby Super been printed lately in the paper? E. A. Roy.

New Bedford.

No; but the new booklet will have the complete layout for it.

2 DIE TRYING TO SAVE GIRL

Bristol, Ct., Feb. 1.—George Bradley, fifty-five years old, and his son, Harry, 20 years old, of Plainville, were drowned in a vain attempt to rescue seven-year-old Helen Baldega of Morrisville from the icy waters of a pond.

Booklet on American Super to Be Ready Next Monday

The patience of the many fans who have been waiting while this booklet was being prepared and its contents carefully checked over, will be well rewarded when they see the finished product.

Among other things it includes:

Materials needed.

Complete blueprints, sketches and photographs.

Detailed instructions.

Dialing records.

RADIOS STILL MUFFLED BY 'BLANKET'

Northern Lights Again Suggested as Possible Cause of Interference

The radio "blanket" which muffled both code and broadcasting Wednesday night continued its deadly work last night.

Many fans began a frenzied search of the insides of their sets, the second evening of silence settled down.

WGY in Schenectady came in faintly once or twice, and other stations were heard even more faintly.

Local stations came in much weaker than usual in the suburbs.

Code interference as reported by the American's amateur operator consisted of an unidentified ship sending at 1046, and the calls of WHZ the Hermitage owner N. Lyon.

The possibility of the Northern Lights being the cause of this condition was suggested again. Wire telegraphers working long circuits have reported troublesome "ground currents" during the past two days.

These ground currents are believed to be caused by Northern Lights.

QUINN'S SPEECH SENT IN FULL

New York Feb 1—Following rumors that John R. Quinn, national commander of the American Legion, who spoke last Tuesday night in Albany and whose speech was broadcasted by station WGY in Schenectady, had been informed by Legion "higher officials" that his speech would be censored if it contained projected statements favoring the bonus and attacking the Mellon tax bill, WGY officials issued a statement asserting Quinn's full speech was broadcast.

The statement revealed further that "all speeches from WGY are previously examined to protect the public and the station."

Says—How Stiff Joints Must Go!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Yes: It's true—the world progresses.

All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it sinks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspaper and go to bed.

The chances are that your mischief laying knee joint will lose its grouch, while you are dreaming, the high degree you used to be when you were a sprinter.

And in the morning, you one man has tried the new discovery, you'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are.

Joint Ease: They call this wonder working substance for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, stainless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its use is immense.

Home Made Cough Mixture Considered Best

Spreads Over Membrane Soothes, Heals and Stops Cough Almost Instantly Use Parmint

Costs But a Trifle

Make your own cough syrup in two minutes at home if you want the best.

Simple coughs, or stubborn coughs, it doesn't matter which, the home made mixture will stop them quicker than any expensive cough syrup you can buy ready, made.

It's fine for chest colds too and for acute nasal catarrh.

Get from any druggist one ounce of Parmint (extra strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all; there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one reads who use this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup can give this expensive ingredient.

And remember—any remedy that overdoses, disturbs, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and catarrhal deafness.

Get Parmint and get better.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Radio receiving conditions in Boston today will be extremely favorable for the reception of all broadcasts from stations in New England, southern Canada and the Atlantic States. ## CRYSTAL DETECTOR MUST BE OF BEST

The crystal detector is important and should be chosen with care. Use a poor crystal and the set will be poor. It should be arranged in some convenient place on the face of the panel where adjustments may be made quickly and easily. Once in adjustment it should stay so for a long time, provided it is not jarred up.

Fixed crystal detectors, which may be secured, are sometimes good, but an adjustable one is usually better because it can be adjusted to extremely strong signal will burn out the sensitive spot on the crystal, and, unless it can be adjusted, the detector might as well be thrown away.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

"Make it snappy." How often we hear that today. Few of us like long-windedness. We like people to come to the point quickly. We prefer short articles to long ones. Concentration and condensation are the vogue.

Whenever there hits me a thought that might be stimulating or helpful to others, I make it a practice of jotting it down, no matter whether I may be walking along the street, riding in an elevator, listening to a speech or reading a newspaper or book. In the hope that the reader may be at least slightly profited or comforted or otherwise moved to action, the following, which have the merit of brevity, are presented:

• • •

The right kind of employe usually doesn't have to move to advance.

• • •

The boss whose workers are all ways giving him a fit can't w be a boss.

• • •

You need your job. Why, then, quarrel with it?

• • •

The employe who aspires to become a master must master his job.

• • •

The fellow who works by fits and starts usually is a misfit.

• • •

Success is attained more often by common effort than by uncommon brains.

• • •

The work game is more interesting than any other game once you learn how to give it your interest.

• • •

The boy who "is there" doesn't have to impress upon workers that he is the boss there.

• • •

If your concern isn't being run well, are you doing anything to help to have it run better.

• • •

Man who make striking impressions as workers rarely have to strike.

• • •

If you are hard to get on with your boss some day will find a way to get on without you.

• • •

Where the boss is unpopular with his organization, the organization is likely to be unpopular with other people.

• • •

When an executive sticks too closely to his desk, it's a sign that he has lost either the courage or his organization ability—or, probably, both.

• • •

"Purveyors to his majesty, the king" is a common sign abroad. You and I are "purveyors to his majesty, man." Do we sometimes forget this duty?

• • •

No man can afford to enjoy life until he first learns to enjoy his work.

• • •

The employe who simply "puts in the time" is, by and by, put out.

• • •

You are not loyal to yourself if you are not loyal to your organization.

• • •

Remember, the boss will hesitate to put you over other men if these other men don't like you.

• • •

An employer may judge a man by his head only, but by wrigntly judges him also by his heart.

• • •

The man who does his best is a success whether the world thinks so or not.

• • •

The fellow who toils above his job will always have others above him.

• • •

You can be sure of this: The boss will forget to promote the employe who continually says "I forgot."

• • •

We must fill our own pay envelopes, or some day we will find it empty.

• • •

The ... morrow ... [illegible] ... quarrel with ... [illegible] ... fying

• • •

Your employer can't afford to pay for your excuses, only for results.

• • •

For you, the most important organization of all is the proper organization of your own life and habits and activities.

• • •

Do you worry a whit or a mite about whether you buy your boss well as you do about getting him to pay you well?

• • •

Any business that isn't moral isn't business, it's criminal.

• • •

Believe in fortune-telling. Each of us writes out his own.

• • •

The corner has to do much overcoming.

STELLA DALLAS — By Olive Higgins Prouty

New and Intensely Interesting Serial of a Marriage of an Educated Man to an Untutored Woman

HOW THE STORY STARTED

Stella Dallas and her husband, Stephen, do not live together. They have a daughter, thirteen years old, named Laurel, who stays most of the year with the mother. They visit a Summer hotel in New England, where the other guests look askance at the painted, overdressed elder woman. The time has come for Laurel to visit her father in New York. He meets her at the station and takes her to a hotel. She goes to visit Mrs. Morrison. The story now goes back to the marriage of Stephen and Stella at Milhampton. Stella starts a flirtation with Alfred Munn. The leading women of the town begin to drop her. Stephen, deciding he can never go back to her, starts a divorce suit. The story then goes back to Mrs. Morrison's marriage to her aged millionaire suitor. The latter dies and Stephen confesses his love to the widow. Stella and Laurel get in with a society set at a Summer hotel and Laurel goes canoeing with Richard Grosvenor. Laurel overhears remarks about her mother and they leave the hotel. Stella has a plan

By OLIVE HIGGINS PROUTY

Author of "Bobbie, General Manager," "The Fifth Wheel," "The Star in the Window," Etc.

Stella was pretty sure that the landlady guessed what was the matter with Ed.

STELLA stepped out of the little stream, once on the sidewalk, stood still, and gazed straight up. Yes! It was all right! The stars were shining like mad, up there, at the top of the canyon, beyond the dizzy precipices.

This was Stella's fifth week in the shirtwaist factory. She must be getting used to it, she guessed. She didn't feel a bit tired tonight. If it wasn't so late, she wouldn't have minded walking the whole way. Laurel would be all dressed now. People would be just beginning to arrive.

Gracious, she must hustle. But she'd simply got to go over to the room a little first. It wouldn't take long. She had locked the door on Ed, but she always got feeling nervous after a whole day's absence during the times he was bad.

Stella was pretty sure that the landlady guessed what was the matter with Ed but she could never tell exactly how many of the roomers were "on." There are roomers who find it helps to pass away the time to make a fuss over a drunk in the house like Ed. Stella didn't want to have to move from this landlady. She had been awfully decent about the rent times she had got a job.

Gracious, but it hadn't taken that thousand dollars long to fade away. It cost something to keep yourself and a sick man—who has to have a "particular kind of medicine"—going these days, though you didn't buy yourself a single rag, nor spend a cent on theatres or the movies, or dress in with shining eyes and clasped hands "Is the beautiful Mrs. Thurlow now sober? But, of course, I see! You look precisely —"

Everything was so quiet at the

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

Ann Lisle

IRMA looked very young and sweet in her usual dark blue. But this time it was set off by a hat of French blue felt which tipped down saucily and gave her an air of wood nymph. A added touch to her eyes

Jim Ashby and almost fragrance when I introduce the three girls. Irma gushed h men of the Stan'ey Hall and her with personal courtesy he has for folks. Park offered her a distinct greeting which settled her. But Ralph, of course, was gallant and chivalrous just because, poor little Irma was so shy and ill at ease.

"I'm driving. Want to sit in front with me, Mrs. Ann Harrison?" asked Park

I climbed up. Irma started a moment to the sidewalk. I thought she was frightened at the thought of having two cavaliers to entertain, so I said encouragingly:

"Hop in, Irma. We'll be six in a minute or two."

"Oh, then, Mr. Harrison is coming!" cried Irma gayly. "I was hoping so. I feel so at home with him. I'm afraid I'm stupid about new friends unless there's an old friend to help me——"

No Slight Intended

It was awkward—dreadfully awkward since Jim was coming and, as I realized in a flash of revelation, had never been asked But I had no thought of any slight to him even when Peter Stanley said easily:

"Oh, we're calling for another woman. She'll protect you from Lacy and me, so don't be worried by our apparent flirtations. Wait till you see us eat out of your hand."

Now Irma isn't used to affairs of this sort. And to her bashfulness with young people is added the suffering she'd done on Jim Mason's account, so she blundered into yet greater awkwardness.

"Oh, Anne, you made Mr. Harrison stay at home so there won't be room for me," she cried miserably. "I shouldn't go."

Before I could answer Peter Stanley said tersely:

"Shocking as it may seem, Mr. Warren, I neglected to ask Mr. Harrison. I'm modern. I make friends with a husband here—not a wife there. I never worry about the one left out. He or she generally finds something to do.

"Oh!" gasped Irma.

I searched my mind for some thing to say. For I meant I felt numb. It clutched my arm Her face was perceptively white

When Peter Stanley made his cynical remark about seeing me a wife here and a husband there, I had a notion that Irma Warren would topple over in a faint. Then Ralph Warren's voice fell sure it would. Irma. Put just as I spoke Irma Warren was out of our one radio. That road to social success families, the Stanleys, who lost it all along. Were on or call for the most exclusive town?"—

"That's Lorraine d Irma who makes of society by reading ch she turned to Peter

A Hot Lemonade

Wards Off Colds

Don't Wait till Too Late

WHEN you first suspect a cold—then is the time to stop it. Don't wait for chills and fever.

The simple, pleasant and effective way is to take a hot lemonade at night. Then a hot bath and bed, with plenty of warm covers. If the cold is just beginning, this will check it.

The effectiveness of hot lemonade in the prevention or treatment of a cold is due to more than its heat.

Be prepared for such an emergency. Keep lemons always in the house. Give to children after play or after school on disagreeable days. It is the best insurance against colds that anyone can use.

Thousands depended on it during the influenza epidemics. You too can depend on it today. Take old-fashioned hot lemonade tonight if you suspect a cold

California lemons make the best lemonade. They are practically seedless, tart and heavy with acid juice. Buy them at any first-class store. Try the "hot lemonade way" tonight.

Hot Lemonade

Slice a whole California lemon crosswise into thin slices (including skin). Place slices in bowl and pour boiling water over them. Allow to stand a few minutes. Pour off lemonade. Cool by diluting only enough to permit drinking.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

FORD announces that he will soon begin making one automobile a minute. With the presidential nomination coming on, Henry wants his name in everybody's garage.

JUST like some of his cars, he hasn't made up his mind yet whether he'll run or not.

THE way he's turning them out it looks like he's going to use garages for polls and his motor cars for ballots.

EVERY farmer would be able to seat at least one broken down automobile for Henry.

HE couldn't help being elected if he totaled up the license plates on all the Ford cars in the country.

HE turns out automobiles quicker than the government can print money to buy them with.

IT won't be long before he'll be running them off on mimeograph machines.

THE factory will make one Ford and fifty carbon copies at the same time.

WHEN the story appeared in the newspapers that Henry was starting to turn out sixty cars an hour, five hundred traffic cops all over the country handed in their resignations.

IT may take a minute to make a Ford but it sometimes takes a week to fix them.

AUTOMOBILES are easy on the feet and this Detroit factory is now publishing them faster than a big factory can make corn plasters.

ONCE-OVERS

(Copyright, 1924, by International Feature Service, Inc.)

DO NOT MAKE A JAIL OF YOUR HOME.

Now, Dad, how can you expect your children to be impressed with the idea that they should remain at home . . . when they hear your wife and her mother complaining about the number of nights that you are away unnecessarily?

And when you are home for an evening how do you treat them?

Do you insist upon quiet and squelch all noisy fun and mischievous capers and make the children feel that they would rather be anywhere else than at home?

Do you ever make a real effort to get acquainted with your children as a pal or companion instead of as a critical father.

It is a tragedy when a child cannot feel free with a father.

It is a crime, sorrow to be said to be repressed and wounds of neglect by parents who would always insist that things are wrong when only selfish spirits are bubbling over with good health and a genuine desire for self expression.

And you may be sure that that child will find that self expression somewhere outside of home and if you wake up it may be too late.

Do not make a jail of your home.

ABOUT YOUR BEAUTY

By Maria Jeritza

Famous Prima Donna of Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

EVERY woman in norma. health may attain the beauty of a harmonious speaking voice.

Possibly you cannot afford costly courses of instruction in diction, tone production and kindred subjects, but even so, you may do much to correct any fault that makes your voice discordant.

Are you ever forced to listen to a woman who speaks in loud, harsh, strident tones. In all probability she also talks a great deal and rapidly. She little guesses the misery her conversation inflicts upon sensitive ears.

It has been aptly said that however economical we may be in other respects, few of us are saving of words. And so almost all of us can number among our acquaintances at least one woman who chatters endlessly in a shrill voice while her conversation is interspersed with meaningless, mechanical plaudits. There are times when even her best friends long to escape the strain of listening to her.

The woman who thinks before she speaks and laughs only when there is something really amusing to laugh at, has poise and self-control. When she does speak she is listened to with interest and pleasure, for she speaks quietly, musically and has something worth-while to say. Also she speaks slowly and distinctly enough to be heard.

I would not suggest that any person become so self-conscious as to constantly listen to the sound of her own voice. But now and then it is a good plan to "listen in" on one's own conversation.

You may in this way detect yourself speaking in the shrill high tones that denote nervousness and ill-poised excitability. Then quiet your thought at once.

Chant for a few minutes each day in a tone of your speaking voice that is neither too high nor too low. Take the pitch from a piano or tuning fork. This will accustom you to speaking evenly in musical tones.

The method that is said to have made Demosthenes the great orator he became has been used to advantage by many a student since his time.

Demosthenes, it is said, recited every day with his mouth filled with pebbles in order to perfect his diction.

Should you try this plan be sure to choose perfectly smooth and clean pebbles and read with them in your mouth. Pause at each change of thought in each sentence, regardless of punctuation. You will be surprised at the improvement you will notice in your diction, for you will in this way be forced to pronounce words carefully.

How pleasant it would be if every woman spoke in even well modulated tones, giving its proper value to each syllable.

You American women have—many of you—such lovely singing voices. Surely there is not one of you who will not find it easy—if you have not already done so—to perfect the beauty of her speaking voice.

NATURE NOTES

Our favorite hen crossed the street at 3:15 p. m., Eastern standard time, but was so shocked by the language used by drivers of four autos passing at the same time that she couldn't get back without our assistance. She reports progress.

An able-bodied mosquito, misled by a Weather Bureau report, left his Winter quarters in the Hackensack Meadows, sneaked into our home and bit us on a bald spot on our left ankle.

A bluejay that had been acting as an alarm clock all Summer decided this week to Winter in our midst. We dropped one of our wife's latest and most permanent biscuits out of the window. The bluejay tackled it. Later, we saw him trying to sharpen his bill on a section of iron pipe up the street, after which he started South.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant To Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

"USE MULSIFIED"

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store; it is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

SIEGFRIED IS WELL DONE AT OPERA HOUSE

Remarkable Performance of Chicago Artistes Wins Great Applause

Beautiful music, beautiful sets and beautiful women shared the honors in "Siegfried" by Chicago Opera Company at the Shubert-Boston Opera House last night. Every available seat was taken and never was an audience more generous. Time and again the artists were called singly and as a group to show themselves to the delighted audience.

Messers. Forest Lamont, Harry Steir, Alexander Kipnis, William Beck, Virgilio Lazzari, and the Misses Kathryn Meisle, Myrna Sharlow and Lucie Westen were at their best. Conductor Giorgio Polacco came in for his own bit of applause at the beginning of each act.

Particularly was the work of Harry Steir as Mime, the villainous dwarf, commendable. He proved himself a thorough master of the emotions.

Siegfried, the stalwart fair-haired youth who went searching for fear and found fame, fortune and love instead, was played in an incomparable way by Forest Lamont. As Brunnhilde, Myrna Sharlow scored an instant hit.

FENWAY VIOLINIST RATES WITH HIGHEST

It is not often that patrons of the Fenway Theatre are offered an artist of such high calibre and artistic reputation as Sascha Jacobsen, the American violinist of Russian extraction, who is playing there this week. As an instance of the standing which Mr. Jacobsen has attained it will be recalled that he was one of the artistes who took part in perhaps the greatest concert ever given in New York. The occasion was the War Thrift Concert given at the Metropolitan Opera House on March 12th, 1918. Such an aggregation of stars as appeared on that program is almost without precedent and that Mr. Jacobsen was invited to appear in such distinguished company surely proves his extraordinary worth.

STAR BEWITCHING IN 'LITTLE OLD NEW YORK'

MARION DAVIES AT PARK THEATRE

MISS DAVIES' DIRECTOR IS PIONEER

Sidney Olcutt Made Moving Picture Start In Old Kalem Days

Sidney Olcott, who directed Marion Davies in her new picture, "Little Old New York," a screen version of Rida Johnson Young's famous stage play, now at the Park Theatre is one of the best known directors in the motion picture industry.

He is one of the pioneers, his start in motion pictures going back to the old Kalem days. He was the first director to take a company of movie players any great distance out of New York, doing so almost fourteen years ago when he went to Florida to film a series of pictures. In 1909 Olcott took a company to Europe, which up until that time had been virgin ground as far as American motion pictures were concerned.

Later Olcott went to Palestine, where he made "From the Manger to the Cross," hailed at that time as the greatest picture ever made. In this company was Robert G. Vignola, who directed Miss Davies in "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

Following his return to this country, Olcott became affiliated with Famous Players for whom he directed a long list of stars, including Mary Pickford, Hazel Dawn, Marguerite Clark, Marie Doro, and many of the other foremost stars.

MARION DAVIES in Little Old NEW YORK

A romance of young love in a young city—the drama of the achievement that made a metropolis—

From the play by Rida Johnson Young

How to Keep Well

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY, Boston Health Commissioner.

MASSACHUSETTS early recognized the importance of birth registration, and as far back as 1639 a law was enacted in the colony compelling the registration of every birth. Physicians are now obliged under the statute to report the birth of every child within forty eight hours.

Dr. Mahoney.

Due to energetic measures used in Boston, this city has been quite fortunate in securing close to one hundred per cent. registration.

Physicians and parents should co-operate in this important work. Proof that the physician has reported the birth of a child will be given later when the City Registrar forwards to the home of the parents a certificate of this fact.

If such certificate is not received within a week after the birth, the matter should be called to the attention of the family.

Important Duty

The registration of every birth is of importance to everyone, not so much to the infant or child having just come into life when conditions arise which demand the procuring of a birth certificate.

Many times, if the birth has not been reported, it is impossible to secure a birth certificate.

If you will consider the many times a birth certificate may be demanded you will appreciate the necessity for prompt reporting of every birth. You may need such a certificate to prove citizenship, the right to vote, school age, legal age for marriage, to prove age under the child labor laws, military service, the right to hold public office, right to property inherited, or to prove nationality in a foreign country, qualifications for jury service, or for passports.

Each infant born is entitled to have this registration filed for him. The State has recognized this right, and has thrown about it many safeguards. In addition to requiring the physicians to report the birth, the law also requires parents and householders to file a report with the City Registrar within forty days after the birth of a child.

Remind your physician to register the child when it is born. If you feel that he has forgotten or neglected it, remind him again, and then write to the City Registrar, at City Hall Annex, Boston.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Should a dog with rabies be killed?
M. A. M.

No. It should be quarantined, and if it has rabies it will die within four or five days. If after ten days no signs of the disease are apparent it may be released.

Does the law allow certain adulterants or preservatives in meat? J. W.

The regulations allow the addition of common salt, saltpeter, sugar, wood smoke, vinegar, spices, saltpeter, if because of its use it must be stated on the label, adulterants commonly used in meats are saltpeter, borazic acid, borax, sulphite of soda and benzoic acid.

It lead a cumulative poison? A. A. B.

Yes, a large quantity may be taken at one time without any noticeable effect, but small quantities ingested daily are absorbed, stored in the body, and result in chronic poisoning and even death.

Morning and night. The brush should also be applied to the top of the tongue, the roof of the mouth and the gums.

Is there any sanitary objection to the baby carriage made of wood? MRS. D. J. M.

The reed carriage has many advantages. Because of its weaving, the carriage is likely to accumulate dust and dirt in places which are unobservable, so that it would not be called absolutely sanitary.

Quacks

Editor Boston American:

I wish to extend my congratulations to you for the good work which you are doing in this community in ridding it of fake doctors.

In regard to your revelation of Dr. Baronian as a "quack," I want to say that you have saved many a poor Armenian from becoming his victims in the future, as had hundreds in the past.

His noticeable advertisements in the Armenian daily papers drew many people to his office, the consequence of which you are now well familiar with. Indeed you will find a number of his advertisements, in which he claims to be a specialist of diseases, both sexes, and cures nerve trouble and rheumatism. He also claims to be a notary public and justice of the peace.

E. B. ZULALIAN.

To Replace "Scoffiaw"

Editor Boston American:

In your paper Mrs. Rose R. Scot offers a prize for a word to offset "scoffiaw," so am sending one. "Rauter," meaning a boisterous preacher, seems to fit in my estimation. Also "bulldozer" may suit the case.

MRS. P. I. BUMPUS.

A small want advertisement in the American will bring the customer for that vacant room.

When Thomas Cusack Was a Young Painter

Learn, Here, That Conditions DO Change

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

Thomas Cusack, of New York and Chicago, was a painter as a young man—a sign painter, not a fancy painter. The other day his employes, numbering thousands, presented to him a portrait of himself and a few kind words in recognition of the fact that he had run his business for fifty years without a strike.

Mr. Cusack, who used to be painting signs for eight or nine dollars a week, now does twenty million dollars' worth of signs every year and has few worries except this: "I suppose it's about the worst thing I can do for my children, GOOD children they are, too, to leave them a lot of money."

Mr. Cusack's cheerful motto is, "The world is getting better and we ought to realize it."

"When I was a lad," said he, "painters got $8 a week. Hundreds of them painted in close quarters, breathing in the lead poison, and they died, leaving their families. Everybody tried to pay everybody else too little. Big concerns that were paying 50 per cent. dividends paid their men starvation wages, and thought that was the way to carry on business.

"Painters that used to get $8 a week when I was a boy now get $10 and $15 a day.

"Business used to be on a bad basis, the idea being to give somebody else the worst of it.

"Take the old circus days. A great deal of sign painting was done for them.

"When a circus came to town, instead of hiring a man to sell tickets, they would sell the ticket-selling privilege for $500. The man who bought the privilege would make his profit 'short changing' the public—and clean up with a thousand dollars for himself.

"The circus would sell the shell game and three-card monte privileges to certain gamblers, keeping out the other gamblers. When the circus moved away, the town would be cleaned up.

"They would wait for a year, give the people a chance to forget it, and then come back and do the same thing over again.

"But people don't forget as easily as they used to now, and conditions are better, thanks to public schools and general education.

"Advertising has helped. I know one man, I won't mention his name, who started in business. His idea in making money was to get all the credit he could, SELL the goods, then FAIL and not pay for them.

"One day when he wanted to sell out in a hurry and clean up with his usual failure, he got it into his head to advertise in a really big way in the newspapers and bring people to the store. He brought so many buyers, with his advertisement, that everything he had in the store was sold by 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Then it occurred to him that there might be more money in getting the right kind of goods, advertising them and PAYING for them instead of failing. So he kept at it that way, and his business is still going and very successful."

Thomas Cusack, who does twenty millions of business a year now, used to be secretary of the Knights of Labor in the old days when he made $8 or $9 a week. He believes that conditions can be made all right and everybody made happy by fair dealing between employers and employes, and that without strikes—he not having had a strike among his men in fifty years.

And, above all, he preaches optimism, belief that things are getting better and that we are going to be all right in the end. That is good preaching.

Frank Munsey 'Game Guy'

But Don't Stop Now, Mr. M. Do Your Stuff

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

In any first-class gathering of sports, Frank Munsey would be called "one game guy."

He tells the world that he spent six million dollars, "not corporation money, just my own money," to clean up the New York evening newspaper field.

The old Daily News he bought and killed DEAD. The Globe he keeps alive "intertwined" with the Sun.

The Evening Mail, relieved from suffering, sin and sorrow, is now to live "intertwined" with the Evening Telegram.

Mr. Munsey has rendered good service to the newspaper field, and the whole world is glad to read his statement that he is "still able to take over another newspaper or two if pressed to do so."

That won't, however, be the next step. Mr. Munsey's NEXT step, inevitably, will be consolidation within his own family. He will find advertisers loath to put their announcements in two papers, very much alike, owned by the same individual. It is unreasonable, but he will find that it is so. Advertisers will think the Munsey following is divided.

He will then naturally conclude to combine the Sun-Globe, Mail and Telegram in one great, powerful, dominating intertwined newspaper, with a combined circulation perhaps a half or even two-thirds as great as that of the NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL.

Then everything will be serene and Mr. Munsey for the time being will have delivered his message.

One other task, however, remains for this Hercules of journalism. There are a couple of morning papers in New York that need to be gently chloroformed and "intertwined" with Mr. Munsey's New York Herald. Then all will be serene and calm, like a shooting star on a cold, clear night.

LISTEN, WORLD!

-:- By Elsie Robinson

It would be easy enough to be heroic if the Big Chance came, wouldn't it? But how are we going to work up heroism over peeling potatoes and scrubbing floors, selling socks and oiling engines, pounding keys and shifting freight? Now those chaps who went to the Argonne—why, they just naturally CAUGHT heroism as if it had been measles. Or those old boys in the pioneer days when there were Indians and buffaloes and cyclones and wild times generally—they jumped into the hero class without half trying.

But common folks, such as you and I—what chance have we to make immortal names, grubbing along at our humdrum jobs? No—seems as if we were out of luck, with our socks and oil cans and potatoes. Imagine stepping up to the Great White Throne with your hands full of potato peelings—asking for a medal! Just imagine! Wonder what that Wise One on the Great White Throne would say? I wonder what He said the other day when they carried in a weary soul, asleep, and laid him down at the foot of the throne, with apples and oranges in his hands?

Only four miles more to go. Surely he could keep awake that long. If only it wasn't so white. Everything white. Whiteness like a bleached dead face staring at him from every side—staring—staring—staring until his eyelids stung and swelled and sagged like broken winks before his eyes. If only it wasn't so white. If only it wasn't so still. Only the creak of the harness—the grunt and pant and muffled whine of tire pulling dogs—the soft pad of hairy feet on snow—soft sounds, sleepy sound. Four miles more to go! Could he keep awake? He MUST keep awake. Otherwise how would the little lonely children in the orphanage have apples and oranges and bright cards on Christmas Day?

Bad enough to be a little orphan lacking home or family for loving during the long Alaska Winter, without missing this treasured bit of cheer. He'd HAVE to get there. Apples and oranges mean so much sometimes—only four miles to go. Long miles, with the air like a jagged blade at 30 below freezing, a jagged blade that bit its way to one's lungs—a leaden weight that clung to his burning lids. But little hearts waited —He HAD to go!

Perhaps the dogs went wild with the cruelty of that day. Perhaps reindeer frightened them, or the scent of wolves broke that thin leash which holds the beast strain quiet in the tamer blood of dog. No one will ever know. Somehow they bolted. But when one dog appeared, with dragging harness, fifteen miles away, the Indians wasted no time in wondering. On fleet and anxious feet they mushed the long trail back. There in the brush they found him—asleep. For miles after the dog had bolted, he had plodded on alone, his pack of Christmas presents in his arms. Then, growing overweary, he had stopped to rest. So passed kind Father Ruppert, friend of little children, on the trail to Nome.

Not easy to become a hero, did you say, with socks or oil cans, or potatoes in one's hands and no great venturing by which to blaze one's fame? Not easy? No—not easy. But I believe it can be done. For when they bore him sleeping to the Great White Throne, with those small cards and fruits within his faithful hands, and gently woke him, do you not think that he beheld the smile of God?

Poor Young Mother

Editor Helping Hand:

Would some of your kind readers help out a poor young mother of twenty-six with a sickly husband and five children, the oldest only nine and the youngest four. I also have a little boy five years old who has been in a plaster cast since he was two years old. I have gone through a surgical operation myself and it is pretty hard to get along paying old bills. My husband can't work all the time on account of his health. I am very much in need of clothing for myself and the children. I am stout, wear size 48 or 50. The boys are nine, eight and five, the girls six and four.

MRS. D. G.

A Fine List

Editor Helping Hand:

Hope I am not too late. I have the following: One big white Teddy Bear, twenty-inch; five-pound box of candy, one fruit cake; also women's clothing: Three sweaters, one yellow silk, one blue open-front, one slip-on, small size, around 38; one short rubber coat, small size; one pair oxfords, narrow width; one pair slippers, French heels; men's undershirts, very large; two suits of underwear, medium or small size; one overcoat (large), and some little fancy flags which would make a pretty pillow.

M. L.

This is a fine list, especially the candy and cake. You have been sent the address of Miss M. G., a girl of fourteen, and the oldest of eight children. They will be made very happy. Thank you.

Badly in Debt

Editor Helping Hand:

I have received help from your column before and I wrote and thanked the kind people who helped me. I thought I would get along better, but it seems that things are going from better to worse. My husband is a disabled War Veteran and only works once in a while. My baby is four months old, and owing to doctors bills and rent I am head over heels in debt. I have also two little girls, five and three, and we are all badly in need of clothing. I have to earn the daily bread and go out to work and cannot afford a baby sitter. I have a chance to work if I can get clothing for the children, but it is impossible for me to go out to work as I am. If you can help me again, I will try to return it when I get on my feet again.

MRS. L. K.

Will Give Pleasure

Editor Helping Hand:

I have the following articles for any family that can use them: Winter underwear for a man, size 40; soft collars, size 16½; two pairs of shoes, size 8; a nice cloth cape, size 36; three Winter hats; a lot of Victor records, and some nice books and magazines.

MRS. H. C. O.

Thank you. We are sending the address of Mrs. J. O. C., whose husband needs an overcoat, and of Mrs. J. S., who takes size 36. We are also sending you the address of Mrs. D. G., whose little boy is in a plaster cast. Someone has given him a Victrola, but he has no records to play. Yours will give a lot of pleasure to him.

For Little Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a heavy dress, velvet coat, with hat to match, for a little girl about three years old, and may find a few other things. Please send me an address right away and I will send them as soon as possible. I have three Winter shirts, four or five Summer wash suits, a fur hat, a velvet hat, and a Spring coat to fit a boy four or five. I also have a

DR. FRANK CRANE ON OPTIMISM AND PESSIMISM

By Dr. Frank Crane

MR. HAVELOCK ELLIS in his "Dance of Life," a really juicy and toothsome volume, takes a fling in one place at the optimist. What he means of course are those optimists whose optimism is but a stubborn sentimental smirk.

There is an optimism however that is a habit of mind based upon deep conclusion.

H. G. Wells pauses occasionally in his triumphant literary career to hurl a brick at the optimist and to indulge in a contemptuous snort at those who interpret conditions by their own temperament rather than by solid logic.

But right there is where Mr. Wells makes his mistake. And his mistake is in the thing he is talking about, which is whether civilization is going to collapse or to triumph, is in the very nature of the case not a thing that any human mind is capable of proving.

The causes of what will become of civilization lie in the deep mind of destiny, and comprise unknown elements that we cannot possibly grasp.

In other words, no matter how excellent and clever the proof, it would not carry conviction, however much it might surprise us as a feat of mental gymnastics.

God knows whether civilization is going to collapse or to triumph—and God alone. Because the eventuation comprises such vast and multifarious factors as God alone can grasp.

Whether "it is all going to come out right somehow," or whether we are all headed for the dogs, is not a matter of fact. It is and always will be a matter of point of view, a matter of attitude of mind.

Always the most accurate term for the thinker who believes in a happy ending is "optimist." And for the thinker who believes that the end is tragedy the most accurate term is "pessimist."

For so long as the human mind is subject to its present limitations, neither of them can absolutely prove his position. And the one who assumes that he has proved it and sneers at the other as an ignorant sentimentalist is merely an egotist.

That, unfortunately, is what Mr. Wells is. While he is a constructive thinker I am forced to recognize that he is oversophisticated.

I believe that civilization will triumph, that it will emerge successfully out of its present difficulties, and I am frankly an optimist. Not because of a lot of facts and reasoning, but simply because I have faith in the cosmic energies of Nature: that health will overcome disease, that sanity eventually will drive away insanity, and that truth will outlive the most vigorous lies.

There is not a living man that should not be dead for the very best reasons. There is not a single business concern that should not be bankrupt for reasons equally as good. And if all we needed were proof, there is plenty of it to convince anybody that the human race should have been extinct years ago.

But we still live. That force of which Mr. Wells has often spoken so admirably, that force of growth, development and health which we call God, continues to function.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON THE SINKING LAND

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

"We read reports every Winter of storms and unusually high tides that wash away the shore line. Some kind of station erected on Nantucket Island four years ago, 100 feet from the edge of the bank, had to be moved recently another hundred feet inshore on account of the inroads of the sea.

"Geologists tell us that the Atlantic is rising at the rate of a foot every century, and that the coastal regions are of a uniform depth of 100 feet or more one hundred miles out, but at that point there is a sharp drop to 3,000 feet depth. This, we are told, marks the ancient shore line of the North American continent.

"Is the land sinking, or is the sea rising?—A. H., Cranston, R. I."

THE land is sinking. This does not mean that all land is sinking all over the globe, or even all over a continent, but only that it is sinking in some regions and rising in others. On the western coast of South America the land is rising relatively to the sea level; along a large part of the North Atlantic coast it is sinking slightly.

There appears to be sinking on the western side of Japan, and the western coast of Greenland has sunk since the early settlements. In Sweden there has been both rising and sinking in relatively late times—sinking at the southern point and rising along the Gulf of Bothnia.

Changes Widely Distributed

These changes, which are widely distributed over the earth, are not confined to the seaboard, but the mean sea level conveniently serves, like a barometric column, to show the effects graphically. Vast areas of land may undergo a tipping process, rising on one side and sinking on the other. It is the belief of geologists that there is such a tipping going on in the United States and Canada around the Great Lake region.

"The acme of absurdity seems west, at a mean rate of about half a foot in a century.

If this should continue long enough it has been pointed out that Chicago would be drowned out by Lake Michigan! But that is only a geological threat, and geological threats are so long-winded and slow-footed that it requires ages to carry them out—even if they do not tire of waiting for fulfillment and quit.

For a thoughtful person who looks at things in the broad, there is something peculiarly fascinating in the restlessness of the round-backed earth. Its motions are so lifelike, and it seems to give so many tokens of annoyance or impatience! It breathes like a porpoise and wrinkles, humps and shakes itself, without the slightest regard to the comfort or the interests of the bioplastic savages scrawling and scratching its epidermis.

The acme of absurdity seems to be reached when people talk about the earth having been made and prepared specially for man. He manages to survive on it pretty well; but he has proved that he can also survive on a tempest-whipped dirigible, or in a submarine or a street full of darting autos, and he must be very stupid if he has not yet learned that his only safety lies in always having his head with him.

Would Grow Dizzy

If man's life were as long as some persons would, apparently, like to have it; if he could live, say, some millions of years, instead of a few decades, he would have a keen sense of the ups and downs of the earth's crust. Let a year be but as a second to him, and he would grow dizzy with the sinkings and risings. He would totter in a perpetual earthquake.

It is in their relations to time that things are pleasant or the reverse. Run the picture that geology furnishes through the time-compressing kinematograph and the crust of the earth would look like a storm-tossed ocean of forming, dissolving, tossing and sinking rocks.

A mere stretching of time—or simply of the sense of time—reveals to our ordinary experience, in the midst of a geologic phantasmagoria of battling shapes, of which we are unaware, scenes of quiet landscape beauty, dotted with ruminating cattle and sheltering peaceful homes.

As I have said, it is the land that sinks or rises, not the sea. Yet, in the long run, the very long run, according to the idea that has hitherto generally prevailed concerning the slow internal shrinking of the globe, there might be a rising of the sea, owing to the contraction of the surface area of the globe.

If the earth was once 9,000 miles in diameter instead of 8,000, its surface has shrunk about 21 per cent., and if it could ever contract to 7,000 miles diameter, the surface would again be diminished about 23½ per cent. Then, if the sea had the same amount of water that it has today, it would rise disastrously.
